$1000.00 REWARD

In War Bonds will be paid by the Record-American for exclusive information leading to the safe recovery of 10-year-old Frances McGrath, whom police suspect was kidnaped.

The daughter of ex-Boston City Councillor John J. McGrath was wearing a chartreuse-color suit, a close-fitting brown "beanie" hat with a feather in it, a ribbon under her chin, brown gloves, a white blouse, "loafer" slippers, brown sox and carried a brown cloth purse with a wooden top, when seen last in Scituate.

Frances is about three feet 10 inches tall, weighs between 80 and 85 pounds, has deep blue eyes, freckles, dimples and wears her hair in pigtails. She is compactly built, has looks a little older than her 10 years. Call City Editor, Liberty 4000.

CARENTAN FALLS

New Seaborne Forces Landed

Have You Seen Her?

Missing in Mystery—As local and State Police today pushed their search for missing Frances McGrath, 10, FBI operatives were expected to be drawn into the case . . . which began Saturday night when the girl left her Peggoty Beach, Scituate, home and was seen no more. Her grieving father fears she may have been the victim of a hit-and-run driver, or a maniac. (Story and other pictures on Page 3.)

Allies Capture Carentan, HemCaen

By JAMES M. LONG

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 12 (AP)—American troops have captured Carentan, main stronghold guarding the narrowest neck of Cherbourg peninsula, the German high command conceded today. British forces have battered nine miles east of Caen, threatening encirclement of that eastern hinge of the Normandy battlefront.

Dougboy troops not only were cracking the Cherbourg peninsula line at the center, pounding halfway acros sthe cape, but one spearhead had hammered within 14 miles southeast of the great port itself, and Berlin said seaborne forces had poured ashore at St. Vaast la Hogue, 15 miles east of Cherbourg.

The Germans said Carentan, whose floodgates control the main peninsular water defense system, was evacuated in order to continue a stand on ground less exposed to Allied naval guns.

BRITISH CENTER FIGHT ON CAEN

As for Caen, German broadcasts said a British drive had reached nearly to Troarn, nine miles due east of that bastion, and that Allied parachutists had landed south of Caen. British troops were driving down west of Caen, threatening the other flank.

Rommel has mounted his fiercest armored counter-attacks in this Caen sector, and Berlin said major British forces were concentrating for a full-fledged assault on the town.

In the center of the 50-mile-long front, American troops were advancing toward St. Lo, a prize communications hub 20 miels inland.

As the American frontal attack across the Merderet river on Cherbourg peninsula reached within 12 miles of the west coast roads—whose capture would seal off Cherbourg—Vichy radio said doughboys had pushed into Quineville on the east coast.

This would put Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's flank within 14 miles of Cherbourg on a four-miel front between Quineville and Montebourg, where street fighting was reported.

The Germans, apparently reeling under the force of the first invasion week, said 300,000 to 400,000 Allied troops already had been poured into a mighty bridgehead flod and that these represented only a third of the amphibious assault forces poised in Britain to hammer home attacks against the continent.

"The bulk of the huge forces of the 21st Amphibious Army group is still standing by to pounce on some important harbor," the Geerman radio declared.

The Germans said the Allies had crossed the Orne estuary, ferrying over tanks and threatening Caen.

The crossing of the estuary forced the Germans to evacuate two towns before the Allied onslaught was checked near Troarn,

Reds Gain on Finn Front

By HENRY CASSIDY

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP)—Launching a major offensive designed to knock Finland out of the war and isolate approximately 100,000 Nazi troops, the Red army rolled forward along the Karelian isthmus above Leningrad today after cracking Finnish defenses on a 25-mile front.

A communique last night announcing the new drive said Soviet troops already had advanced 12 to 25 miles, and indicated they were moving forward everywhere in high gear.

This offensive evidently was coordinated with Allied operations in Frnace, and represented a step in the grand Allied strategy worked out at the Teheran conferences.

Troops under Col.-Gen. Govorov, who lifted the siege of Leningrad, launched the push Friday, just one month after the recapture of Sevastapol—a month devoid of major activity along the long front.

CAPTURE 82 TOWNS

The Soviet communique declared Russian forces had captured 82 towns and villages, including the rail junction of Terijoki, 27 miles airline northwest of Leningrad and 160 miles east of the Finnish capital of Helsinki.

Also captured, the bulletin said, was Yappillya, described as an important strongpoint seven miles northeast of Terijoki.

Terijoki, on the Leningrad-Helsinki railway, is about six miles west of the 1938 Russian-Finnish border, and 70 miles east of the frontier established by the peace treaty which ended the war between the two countries in the winter of 1939-40.

SEA, AIR FORCES JOIN

The Soviets said the offensive was being supported not only by masses of planes but also by guns of the Russian Baltic fleet, and that heavy losses in men and material were being inflicted on the Finns.

Marshal Stalin acclaimed the opening of the offensive in a special order of the day in which he praised Govorov and his men and ordered 20 salvos fired from 220 artillery pieces in Moscow to celebrate initial successes.

First word of the drive was given American and British officials here by Foreign Commissar Molotov Saturday at a luncheon in Spiridonovka Palace, held to observe the second anniversary of the signing of the Russian-American mutual assistance pact.

COMMUNIQUE No. 13

By the Associated Press

The American advance east of the Vire river has continued into the Forest de Cerisy.

In the Cherbourg peninsula, enemy mobile batteries have been under a heavy fire from Allied warships, and some further progress has been made west of the inundated valley of the Merderet river.

Air operations were curtailed sharply after midday yesterday, when cloud and rain obscured much of the battle area.

After escorting heavy day bombers, our fighters joined fighter-bombers and rocket-firing fighters in attacking oil tanks, rail centers and road and rail traffic, including several hundred railroad cars, tanks and armored vehicles.

From these operations 24 aircraft, including three heavy bombers, are missing.

During the night heavy bombers struck rail centers at Nantes, Evreux and Tours, and a railway bridge at Massay-Pallaiseau, south of Paris.

Allied medium and light bombers and rocket-firing aircraft hammered rolling stock, a ferry terminal and road transport. Intruder aircraft operated with success over enemy airfields in Holland and France.

Record Air Armada Rips Rommel Lines

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 12 (AP)—American heavy bombers and streams of fighter craft pumped a steady hail of bombs and lead into German defenses today in the greatest aerial blows to date supporting the French invasion.

News of the war fronts in Italy, Asia and the Pacific on Page 4

Flying in fine weather, the Allied Air Forces by noon had run up more sorties than all day yesterday — when 7000 planes slammed the Germans.

From dawn on—after a night in which RAF bombers pounded four key rail centers in France and went to Berlin—heavies, mediums, lights, fighter-bombers and fighters raced over the battlelines and far into France, bombing and strafing.

A significant new point in the support campaign became apparent. Squadrons of RAF fighters were attacking specific targets in rapidfire order on calls from ground units—which meant newly established air bases on French soil were clicking.

Besides the speedy knockout of particular objectives immediately in front of the troops, the campaign was proceeding along two main lines—disruption of transport lines within 100 miles of the battleline over which Marshal Rommel is trying to bring up tactical reserves and the bombardment of rail centers beyond the 200-mile radius through which the Germans might draw on strategic reserves in southern France.

The German air force was responding with heightening strength. About 160 enemy planes were over the battle area last night and American Thunderbolt fighter-bomber pilots returning from an early morning foray reported opposition "the roughest yet."

The Thunderbolts were jumped by about 30 German fighters, but Allied pilots said enemy flak still was the biggest hazard.

British Writer Killed Off Invasion Coast

LONDON, June 12 (INS)—Arthur Thorpe, naval correspondent for the British Exchange Telegraph Agency, was killed in action as he stood on the bridge of a small coastal craft off an invasion beach.

He was the first Allied war correspondent to meet death in the invasion of France, and the 40th killed during the entire war.

Invasion Weather

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—The sky over Dover Strait was blue and cloudless today. Visibility was good and the surface of the sea was barely ruffled by a light westerly wind.

The barometer rose steadily during the night, after a decade of rain, and there were indications that a period of fair weather might be expected. The temperature was in the 70's at 8 a. m.

FINLAND—Soviet forces (arrows) have smashed through Finnish defenses north of Leningrad in two days of fighting and have captured Terijoki and Yappilya, according to Moscow.

SOMEWHERE AT SEA—The sun's rays shimmer on the waters as chimes sound for 8 o'clock breakfast. The convoy is well under way, and the entire ship is up early to celebrate the first day at sea.

Clatter of GI messkits echoes throughout our compartment, a box-like 21 x 27 affair in which 24 men are quartered. The bunks are double-tiered and short, too short for anybody who stands over 5-10.

"Must have been made for Jap prisoners," cracks Photographer Bill Jones, picking his knees out of his chin. Dressing space is at a premium, and there are only two washbowls for the two dozen pilgrims.

"No shaving before breakfast" is the command, a sensible one. A hurried toilet, and the 24 troop to the dining room.

WEAR LIFE PRESERVERS

"Go back and get your life-preservers," an MP orders, and we learn that they are to be worn at all times. Sleep without them at your own risk. However, it is all right to sling them over the shoulder at boat drill. They are cumbersome, too, especially at the well-attended religious services.

First and second lieutenants and first class civilians eat at the first sitting, captains and officers of higher rank and the Red Cross girls an hour later. First breakfast aboard ship consists of prunes (three), kippered herring (shunned by all), kidney on toast, coffee and rolls. There is plenty of butter and sugar. The dining room is spacious and air conditioned.

There are no immediate after-breakfast cigarettes. Smoking is forbidden in the dining room, forbidden everywhere except in the officers' lounge and on the deck at specified hours. Drinking is taboo at all hours, and in all quarters, even on these British boats, under orders of Gen. Eisenhower.

It is a glorious morning, and all repair to the top deck to bask in the sun and puff on a cigarette. The sea is calm enough for the Public Garden swan boats. Except for the echelons of ships, one might easily mistake the voyage for a pleasure cruise.

The Red Cross girls, wearing slacks, exercise, directed by an Army sergeant, then loll around the deck singing songs like college undergrads, playing cards with the various officers or leaning over the rail watching the porpoises play.

DICE DIVERSION

Day dreaming is shattered abruptly at 10:30 by the signal for boat drill, which lasts a full hour. Another 60 minutes of hell-otroping, and it is time for the noon-day meal.

Great is everyone's surprise when steak and onions, with lyonnaise potatoes, are served as the entree. "You'll eat well this trip," said military table companions. Yes,

Finnegan, Jones Covering Action

Before Austen Lake returned from his second trip to the war zone after his brilliant series about New England boys, the Boston American already had Huck Finnegan accredited as his replacement.

Finnegan sailed in advance of the invasion with Photographer Bill Jones (Record-American-INP) when illness forced Lake's return earlier than expected.

Finnegan arrived in England well in advance of invasion date, and the first score of his articles was prepared during the mobilization of forces for the invasion. There is no way of telling which, if any, of the local boys he writes about have been in the action in Europe.

French Patriots Go Into Action

LONDON, June 12 (INS)—Reports on the French resistance movement piled in from all quarters today. Swiss and Swedish papers told of a major Patriot uprising near the invasion zone and in eastern France from Avignon to Metz and Bellegarde, near the Swiss border.

A Madrid dispatch claimed "500,000 French Patriots have attacked German strongholds and are locked in battle in southern France with Vichy militia and Germans."

A British broadcast reveaed destruction of the Orne valey power plant in Normandy by French patriot forces and told of patrio sabotage of rail and radio communications between Paris and the coast.

The newspaper La Suisse said "special teams" belonging to the French resistance movement had gone into action on D-day.

The German-operated Paris radio quoted the German high command as saying members of resistance groups could not consider themselves on the same footing as regular soldiers and would be treated as terrorists and not prisoners of war.

Fear Missing Girl Kidnaped

The eerie disappearance of 10-year-old Frances McGrath near the Scituate marshes, Saturday night, shortly before thunder and rain transformed the desolate area into a macabre setting, offered police four possibilities today.

They were spoken by her grieving father, former City Councilor John J. McGrath of Richview st., Dorchester, after a sleepless night shared by his wife, Mary.

He voiced his theories as Coast Guard regulars and reserves, State and local police, Boy Scouts and townspeople continued to comb the area in and around Scituate.

"I have thought of drowning," he said. "I have thought of a hit-and-run driver so cowardly as to conceal her body. I have thought of kidnaping. And I have thought of a maniac.

FEARS MANIAC

"Yet Frances was a good swimmer. As for kidnaping, I know of no enemy who would stoop so low. I have no real enemies so far as I am aware. And God knows I have no great sums of money to make kidnaping a profitable crime for anyone.

"So, although all four possibilities exist, I am inclined to discount drowning and kidnaping. I cannot discount the maniac or the hit-and-run driver.

"If either of these is responsible for our little girl's disappearance I know God will answer my prayers and those of my wife."

PAROLEE SOUGHT

In pursuance of McGrath's theories regarding a maniac, police learned from state parole board records that Scituate does not harbor anyone with a criminal record of that nature.

Yet they did discover that in an adjacent town there is a parolee whose offenses justified inquiry as to his whereabouts Saturday night. He is being sought.

Another man was taken in for questioning yesterday but was released after a short time.

State and Boston police entered the picture today, with the possibility the FBI will follow, the latter because of the kidnaping possibility.

Lost Girl's Trail Step-by-Step

Step-by-step today searchers went over the last known activities of 10-year-old Frances McGrath, from the time she left her parents' summer home on Peggoty Beach Saturday night at 7 until she vanished shortly after 9.

Frances left her home shortly after 7 and went to St. Mary's of the Nativity Church, in Scituate. There she made confession.

Her sisters, Nancy, 14, and Elinor, 16, walked out of the cottage five minutes later. They took the same route to the church, which is more than a mile from the McGrath cottage.

From church, Frances walked, again alone, to Pinkham's drug store in the business section, approximately one-quarter of a mile.

The little girl was on a typical childhood errand. She wanted an ice cream cone.

GETS 10-CENT CONE

But she had only a nickel and she wanted a 10-ent cone. While she was pondering her economic problem, in walked her two sisters. Frances hailed them delightedly. They were older and were privileged to carry more change.

Nancy provided the extra nickel. Frances walked around the store, talking to chums and tasting her cone sparingly, for she wanted to make it last.

Then there was enacted a tragedy of misunderstanding, without which the child might have slept safely in her bed Saturday night.

In walked her father, former Boston City Councilor John J. McGrath. He had driven from the cottage to buy newspapers.

THAT FATEFUL MIX-UP

He greeted all three of his children. Seeing them in the store together, he assumed they were going to walk home together. But Frances and her father left the store within seconds of each other—and the older sisters assumed she would ride home with their father.

It was now 8:45 p. m. Within half an hour, Frances was to vanish.

Alone once more, she walked from the drug store to bowling alleys of the Santuit Recreation Center. When she entered she still had her ice cream cone.

A score or more of boys and girls were there, some of whom knew the little girl.

Frances moved from group to group. John Gagnon, manager of the place, said later she appeared to be looking for someone.

If she was, she was disappointed, for she left 10 or 15 minutes after 9 o'clock, Gagnon told police and her father. The child had said to him, "Goodby, Mr. Gagnon," and walked into the night—again alone.

NO TRACE AFTER THAT

No definite trace of the child's movements since then has been obtained by police or other searchers.

It is considered possible she turned in the direction of her home, about a mile and one-half away and much of it a causeway with marshland on either side, flooded at high tide.

The tide was not high and it had not begun to rain at that hour. The storm did not reach Scituate until after 10.

Soon after Frances left the bowling alleys a child her height was seen trudging over the Edward Foster bridge. This information was given police by a man whose name was not disclosed. He said he thought it was she, but it was took dark to be certain. He wondered, he added, how a small girl happened to be abroad alone, at that spot at that hour, but she did not appear hesitant in her manner of walking, so he dismissed the matter.

There would have been ample time, before the storm struck, for Frances to reach her home from the site where the man had seen a little girl.

But it was a lonely stretch of marsh land that paralleled her course. Signs of the approaching downfall had deterred adults from walking forth.

Her two sisters took the same route home. They saw nothing.

Quick Passage of G-I Bill Slated in Senate Today

By FRANK REILLY
Record-American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 12—The GI Bill of Rights for veterans of World War II—hurdling obstacles that once seemed unsurmountable—today was headed for passage in House and Senate and presentation for the signature of President Roosevelt no later than Thursday.

The Senate was expected to take action today, while the House was scheduled to cast a favoring vote tomorrow.

Arrival of Rep. John S. Gibson of Georgia paved the way for speedy passage. Gibson made an automobile and airplane dash from his home state to break a deadlock vote in committee, and the race was on to push the bill through as speedily as possible.

Legislative draftsmen drew up the measure in the printed form in which it will go before the two branches of Congress, while the American Legion, which sponsored the legislation, sent out its most influential leaders to win the support of congressmen.

As the committee approved it, the bill provides a chance for every veteran to continue education interrupted by the war. The actual cost of education up to $500 will be shouldered by the Veterans' Administration, while the veteran also may receive $50 monthly subsistence.

The government also will guarantee every veteran a down payment for the purchase of a farm, home or business. He can get his loan from a private or federal agency at a rate of 4 per cent, with the government guaranteeing 50 per cent of loans up to $4000, and a maximum of $2000 on loans over $4000.

Jobs for veterans would remain in the hands of the U. S. Employment Service, but Brig.-Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' administration, is empowered to see that veterans really get preference in their search for jobs.

There is also unemployment compensation, with veterans entitled to such compensation for 52 weeks in the two years following their discharge, at the rate of $20 a week.

Meanwhile, tribute was paid in many parts of the nation to William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers for their battle to obtain justice for the veterans.

At Los Angeles, 200 American Legion officials voted unanimously to send a message of appreciation to Mr. Hearst. The telegram read:

"The area rehabilitation conference of the American Legion, comprising Arizona, California, Nevada and Utah, in a two-day conference at Los Angeles, were unanimous in expressions of thanks to you, the Hearst newspapers, Frank Reilly of Boston, David Camelon and Roy Topper of the Hearst staff for untiring efforts in behalf of the American Legion GI Bill of Rights.

"John Sinclair, vice-chairman."

Allies Chase Nazis 70 Miles Past Rome

By LARRY NEWMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NAPLES, June 12 (INS)—Allied armies in Italy, averaging 15 miles advance a day, pressed steadily forward today on the heels of retreating German hordes and reached a point nearly 70 miles north of liberated Rome.

On the Adriatic end, the Allies cleared the Germans from positions south of the Pescara river in what amounted to a 17-mile advance since the enemy began his full-scale evacuation of that sector.

The Fifth Army, maintaining its lightning-like sweep on the heels of the demoralized Nazi 14th army approached Orbetello on the Tyrrhenian coast. East of the Tiber other units of Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's force moved on Rieti.

NEW GERMAN DIVISIONS

"The bearer of this pass," it read, "is authorized to pass either alone, or with small groups, to the assembly area near Florence."

Three new German divisions are taking up the 14th's work, as Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring throws in every division available. Only the depot division is not reported being activated.

Warplanes of the Mediterranean Air Force continued to hamper the fleeing German columns, destroying another 57 Nazi vehicles on the roads above Rome. Some 40 more were damaged.

Rome With Doughboys Settling to Normalcy

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ROME, June 12 (AP)—A week of Allied occupation finds Rome topsy-turvy in some respects but surprisingly normal in others.

The Romans have become accustomed to the sight of doughboys in the streets, boisterous and friendly, and they apparently like them infinitely more than the Germans, who were well-behaved—and contemptuous.

Generally the Romans have welcomed the Americans with open arms and in lively anticipation of getting something out of them. Whiel the arrival of the Americans has been accompanied by astronomical increases in prices of gods sold to soldiers, black market prices generally have fallen, as the Romans expect the Allies to flood the city with food and other necessities.

Flour, $1.40 a pound just before the city fell, now is 20 cents. Gasoline, which was $3 a gallon, now is $4.

The capital has trolleys running but no buses, as the Germans carried them off. Lights and power have been restored to some sections. Houses in the center have running water but in outlying sections water must be drawn from street hydrants.

Most interesting distraction are syp hunts. Known spies and wanted Fascists are being taken from hiding by soldiers. Saturday on the Via Del Macelli (Street of the Two Butchers, a frightened, spectacled man was dragged from a drug store where he was hiding, the crowd sought to grab him and doubtless would have torn him to pieces if soldiers had not held them back. Many of those bravely joining in the hunt for Fascists were among those who cheered loudest for Mussolini.

Servicemen's Kin At Flag Day Rites

The sun dawned bright today but brighter by far were the glorious colors and shining tradition of the American flag, which on Wednesday—167th anniversary of its birth—will be given tribute by thousands of Bostonians.

Men and women of all faiths, most of them with loved ones on the fighting fronts, will join in a day-long prayerful observance, to be climaxed by a twilight military parade and a colorful patriotic pageant.

The patriotic Flag Day exercises will be held on Gen. MacArthur mall, Charles st. side of the Boston Common parade ground, immediately following the arrival of marchers, whose parade begins at 7 p. m. in Copley sq.

MANY WOMEN IN LINE

In the line of march, which will be over Boylston and Tremont sts. to the Common, will be Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard detachments with their bands and colors, motorized cavalry troops, WACs, WAVES, SPARS and Girl MARINES, Army and Navy nurses, Massachusetts State Guards and Women's Defense Corps.

There will be a special United Nations section including representatives of the armed forces and civilian groups of America's allies. Flags of the Allied Nations will be escorted by Aleppo Temple and the Shriners' band.

Flags of the 48 states of the U. S. A. will be carried and escorted by the Special Headquarters and Service Co., M. S. G., and an honor company from Roxbury Memorial High School. Historic flags of colonies and nation of the U. S. A., dating from 1497 to 1944, will be escorted by the Boston Lodge of Elks and House of the Angel Guardian band, with costumed Girl Scout flag bearers and Roxbury Memorial cadets.

PARADE GROUND PROGRAM

Ceremonies at the parade ground will include reading of the President's and governor's Flag Day proclamations, music and choral singing, and a dramatized "Story of the Stars and Stripes."

The Flag Day address will be given by Mayor Maurice J. Tobin and the exercises will be attended by ranking officials of the armed forces. Lieut.-Col. John J. Riley, M. S. G., will be parade marshal, with Maj. Frederick L. Jackson, M. S. G., as chief of staff.

Church Looters Sought

Police today sought burglars who broke into the Church of the Covenant, Newbury st., Back Bay, looting office desks and lockers and strewing church records over the floors. Church officials said only petty cash and postage stamps were stolen.

Japs Closing Vise In Changsha Drive

By Associated Press

Japan's determined campaign to seal off eastern China against future Allied use mounted toward a climax today in the furious battle for Changsha.

Chinese troops offered to fight to the last man were backed up against the outer defenses of this key link in the Hankow-Canton railway. They were resisting formidable forces which have pushed 200 miles southward from the Hankow area.

Another Japanese force, Chungking reported, was driving northward out of Canton along the railroad, aiming at closing a vise on the embattled city.

CHENNAULT WARNING

The gravity og the battle prompted Maj. Gen. Chennault to declare the Pacific war could be prolonged for years if Japan were allowed to build a defensive wall along the railroad. The two-sided threat to Changsha, he added, had brought the China war to its most furious peak in six years.

The other four Pacific batile fronts were going well for the Allies. From new Dutch New Guinea bases Allied airmen flew bombers against Palau for their first daylight raid on this island group guarding the eastern Philippines. It was a portent of the new turn Gen. MacArthur's Philippines-bound campaign has taken.

Adm. Nimitz' forces almost simultaneously smashed at Guam and other enemy bases in the Mariana chain, also protecting the Philippines from the east. Palau in the Carolines and the Marianas form a defense wall the American commanders must breach to reach the Philippine islands and China.

CHINESE TAKE LUNGLING

Allied forces moved half a mile deeper into Myitkyana, main enemy north Burma base controlling the Burma-China road. The city's airport is in Gen. Stilwell's hands.

The Chinese pushing toward Myitkyina from southwest China captured Lungling, enemy base on the upper Burma road, hailing the feat as their most important of the Salween offensive. The Chinese announced that now the China end of the famed road could carry supplies to the Salween army, heretofore dependent on Mountain trails.

Battered Cross His Memento

Memories of Guadalcanal foxholes come readily to Capt. John Shade Franklin, Army chaplain, of Auburndale, as he hears his congregation sing that old hymn "The Old Rugged Cross."

He has merely to look ata the foot high wooden cross which he carries with him as he preaches and note the chips hewed from it by Japanese shrapnel which wrecked his tent over which it had been placed by a Seabee early in the 27 months he spent in the South Pacific.

Now stationed at the Cushing Hospital in Framingham, close to his wife and their four children, who live at 45 Islington rd., Auburndale, he can look back at more than two years spent in the Pacific fighting zone wher ehe won the title of "frontline chaplain."

Next Sunday night he will return to preach at his old patsorate, Lincoln Park Baptist Church, with his battle-scarred talisman to remind him of the night he flung himself into a near-by foxhole as his shelter was ruined by enemy bombardment.

Bresnahan New WMC Chief Here

Appointment of Lawrence J. Bresnahan, former state director and assistant regional administrator of the OPA, as regional chief of the division of placement of the War Manpower Commission was announced today by Regional Director Joseph A. Smith.

Prior to entering the service of the OPA, Bresnahan was the state's WPA administrator and had been vice-president and general manager of the U. S. Chemical Co. and an industrial engineer with the American Rubber Co.

Odd Lot Shoes Ration Free

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Shoe purchasers will have a chance at about seven million pairs ration-free from July 10 to July 29 during a national odd lot sale, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

And the shoes must cost at least 25 per cent less than their price on June 1, OPA declared.

This odd-lot sale will include footwear for men and women, boys' sizes 1 to 6 but not children's, misses' and little boys' shoes, which were included in the temporarily ration-free shoes for three weeks in May.

Less than 1.5 per cent of the estimated total supply of shoes for 1944 will be included in the July ration-free sales, OPA said.

Noxon Prosecution Calls More Experts

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 12—The trial of John F. Noxon, Jr., resumed in superior court today with the State seeking through a staff of medical and scientific experts to prove its contention he murdered his infant son, Lawrence.

The day got under way with the usual prayer for our invasion forces, after which Clifford O. Hill, an engineer of the General Electric Co., was called for cross-examination. Previously, he had given testimony concerning electric cord of the type which carried the charge which was fatal to the Noxon baby, which faced life as an incurable defective.

DUEL OF EXPERTS

State medical experts who will duel with defense counsel during the next few days include Dr. Alan R. Moritz of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Albert C. England, local medical examiner, as well as authorities on electricity and thermal-electric burns.

Hint has been given that Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti has "surprise" witnesses to present before the government rests its case. But in answer to queries on this score he remained silent.

Members of the jury all appeared in perfect health today, a relief to Judge Abraham E. Pinanski, as well as the prosecution and defense, for an earlier hearing of the case was declared a mistrial when a juror suffered a continuing illness.

RELAX ON WEEK-END

The jurors' week-end included sun baths in the solarium atop their hotel, as well as long walks, a bus ride to a roadside restaurant in New Ashford and attendance at a Pittsfield movie.

Members also attended church services at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, where the defendant served as vestryman, and heard a prayer by the Rev. Ralph H. Hayden for their enlightenment and guidance.

Questioned afterwards by reporters, Dr. Hayden said he has offered the same prayer before the altar daily since the trial began.

3 N. E. Men Saved In Invasion Sinking

Three New England men were among 16 unconscious crew members of a sinking ship who were rescued during the invasion operations by U. S. Coast Guard Cutter No. 40, the Associated Press reported in a dispatch from London.

Saved from the cutter tied up to the sinking craft, which had struck three mines, were Richard P. Gibbons of Brighton, Frederick Mason, Jr., of Barrington, R. I., and Ferdinand Slaimen of Providence, R. I.

Another dispatch disclosed that "Buffey," the first dog to land in France, went aboard from an LCI boat commanded by Lieut. Albert Ullman of Dedham. The dog, which died a hero's death after landing, was the only casualty on the Dedham skipper's ship.

Drowned Boy's Funeral Planned

Funeral services were planned today for Brendan F. Joyce, 8, of Shannon st., Brighton, who was drowned in an old swimming hole in the Charles river off the foot of Arsenal st., Watertown.

Brendan, a second grade pupil in the Winship School, Brighton, and one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Joyce, went to the swimming hole with a group of boys but was the only one to go into the water.

When some distance off shore he creid for help and disappeared. Walter Grace, 11, of Union st., Brighton, ran to older boys for help and several made vain attempts to locate the swimmer. The body was recovered by Metropolitan police.

Bar Jurors

PITTSFIELD, June 12—The 12 Noxon jurors were withdrawn from the Palace Theater last night shortly after they arrived because the movie "Ladies of Washington," was considered to be bad for them due to its murder theme, it was revealed today.

The jurors were taken back to their quarters at the Wendell-Sheraton and spent the evening reading and resting.

New Bond Drive Rush Sets Mark

Moved by the sacrifices of American heroes in France and in Italy, men and women of Boston poured their dollars into the Fifth War Loan drive today as the Treasury Department launched a campaign to raise $16,000,000,000 to back the attack.

First reports showed the public was running ahead of the pace set in the Fourth War Loan last January. Notable in sales in Massachusetts, where the goal of $828,000,000, was the rush to buy the popular E bond, priced as low as $18.75 and returning $4 to every $3 invested.

Residents of Greater Boston must raise $65,600,000 through sale of this type of bond in the four weeks before the July 8 deadline.

The first public rally in the campaign took place at noon today on Boston Common, with radio stars as entertainers. Another sales rally was listed for 3 p. m. when Mrs. Mark W. Clark, wife of the commander of our forces in Italy, was to speak to women at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

There is a special award for the highest bond bidder. It's a home cooked meal with Mayor and Mrs. Tobin and Screen Actress Veronica Lake as cooks and dish washers. At last reports, however, it appeared Mrs. Tobin would be in for a busy evening, for the mayor still nurses a broken bone in his right hand and Miss Lake arrived here with a broken thumb suffered in a fall at Chicago.

Tonight there will be a presentation in Boston Garden of the all-services show, "Direct Hit," with purchase of war bonds required for admission. Guest stars will be Miss Lake, Sergt. Gene Autry, Joan Edwards, Walter O'Keefe and Comdr. Jack Dempsey.

The Boston arrival of Miss Lake gave Helen Louise Tobin, 10, her first chance to act as the city's first lady.

With the mayor and his wife unable to greet the screen star at the airport, their daughter took over the function and proved a charming substitute.

She presented Miss Lake a large bouquet of roses and accompanied her to a hotel, where the latter pleaded weariness to reporters and dashed to her room while little Helen very capably conducted a press conference.

IN AFRICA—Carolyn Evans of Newtonville has arrived in North Africa to serve as an American Red Cross secretary, it was learned today.

All Is Confusion in Salem Youth's Hub Crime Venture

No one he tried to hold up Saturday would pay any attention to him, Julian S. Kayak, 20, of Federal st., Salem, reported woefully in the Boston police lineup today.

For that matter, he added, he didn't know why he had decided to be a holdup man, anyway. "I had been drinking, you know, and it just sent my head spinning," he told police.

Kayak's debut in the local crime picture was staged in the Premier store, Washington st., North End.

"I went in, put my hand in my pocket and told the man, 'Get 'em up,'" he said.

"I old him, 'Put 'em down,'" said Kayak. He then left the place, he related.

It was pretty much the same in a cornhill store, he said. "The man kept laughing at me," Kayak recounted. "Then I reached over and rang up a 'no-sale' on the cash register to see how much was in it. But I didn't get anything. My head was still spinning."

He was held for municipal court.

Week's Auto Deaths In State Drop to 3

Reynolds Organizes Group To Fight International Trend

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Sen. Robert R. Reynolds, North Carolina Democrat, announced he is engaged in a move to organize United States Nationalists to combat the present trend toward internationalism.

In a formal statement he asserted that the majority of the country's citizens are nationalists despite plans in Washington to "dissipate United States resources and independence" in the post-war period.

As a rallying point, he said, he is organizing "the American Nationalists' Committee of Independent Voters," and shortly will appoint chairmen for each state.

"There are innumerable indications that the American people continue as thoroughly nationalistic as they have been throughout their country's history," Sen. Reynolds said.

DEMANDS PLANKS

"The present situation leaves them voiceless, however, and there is possibility that neither national convention this year will offer them a leader.

"For the next four years, then, they would have to depend on Congressmen to stay the destruction of those Nationalist principles on which our country grew great. These are the principles enunciated by a true American Nationalist, George Washington, and they are as virtuous and sound today as when he spoke them."

To arrange a campaign for nationalist congressmen, the senator's statement said, the new committee will present questionnaires to all candidates.

PEOPLE "VOICELESS"

"Naturally," Sen. Reynolds went on, "the committee also will attempt to prevail on the Democratic and Republican parties to adopt nationalist planks."

The movement, the senator said, is not an attempt to organize a third party. He explained:

"Membership pledge cards soon to be circulated will state that the signer believes Democrats, Republicans and Independents should insist on the nomination and election of public officers who will always consider the interests of our own people and our own country first.

"Considering that only a comparative few listeners or readers take the trouble to write letters, I consider that a remarkable response."

Kennedy's Son Gets Hero Medal

Lieut. John Fitzgerald Kennedy, USNR, 27-year-old son of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, today received the Navy and Marine Corps Medal at Chelsea Naval Hospital, where he soon must undergo a back operation.

The decoration came from the Secretary of the Navy for exceptional heroism in effecting the rescue of the crew of his PT boat after the small craft had been sliced in two by a Jap destroyer.

Lieut. Kennedy

Kennedy, a native of Brookline and now a resident of Hyannisport, entered the hospital only yesterday. The injury to be corrected was suffered in the Pacific area last August, when he held the rank of lieutenant, junior grade.

The former ambassador cannot be present to see his son decorated, since he is en route to Chicago to make an address.

The citation which accompanied the decoration read:

Sour Notes

An assorted collection of tenors and baritones faced drunkenness charges in Charlestown District Court today in the aftermath of a raid on an alleged kitchen barroom which occupied two houses on Kelly et., Charlestown.

Trailing the source of music far from sweet, police raiders entered one house and battered their way into the other, which from the street appeared unoccupied. They seized several cases of ale in addition to 19 male songbirds.

Saltonstall Gives Talk to Dentists

Devoting its first business session to discussions on "Improving Dental Health of School Children," the Northeastern Dental Society opened its 31st annual convention in Swampscott today, with Gov. Saltonstall scheduled as principal speaker.

Demonstrations of wartime dental surgery, an exhibit on the care of the teeth of school children and talks by Dr. James Clark Healy and Dr. Philip I. Murray of Tufts College, and Dr. Frank W. Rounds of Westchester (N. Y.) Hospital, are scheduled.

At the opening dinner, Lieut. Gov. Horace T. Cahill said more men are draft-classified as 4-F because of bad teeth than for any other reasons. The uses of penicillin in oral surgery will be explained tomorrow by Comdr. George W. Christiansen of the Navy Dental School, Bethesda, Md., and Dr. Lester W. Burkett will talk on "Trench Mouth." The convention will close Wednesday.

CYO Band Winners Get Cups

Winners of the 13th annual band competition of the Archdiocese of Boston, which was attended by a crowd of 28,000 at Boston College Alumni Field, 10 Greater Boston Catholic schools held silver loving cups today. Thirty-three schools took part in the contest sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization.

Bishop Richard J. Cushing, administrator of the Archdiocese, dedicated the activities of the day to four purposes: to the late Cardinal O'Connell inspiration of the Catholic Youth Movement; to the 135,000 Catholic young men from the Archdiocese in the armed services; to the 200 priests from the archdiocese in the armed forces; and, finally, to the youth of the country that they may be worthy of the sacrifices being made for them in this war.

The bishop bestowed 10 silver cups on the winners among 33 contestants.

These were: Bands—St. Joseph's, Medford; Holy Name, West Roxbury, and St. Ambrose, Dorchester. Drum and Bugle Corps, Sacred Heart, Malden; Most Precious Blood, Hyde Park; St. Cecelia's, Ashland; St. Mary's, Brookline, and Sacred Heart Crusaders, Malden. Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, St. Mary's, Brookline; St. Catherine's, Norwood.

Bricker-Byrd Ticket Proposed

DALLAS, Tex., June 12 (AP)—A national coalition ticket of Gov. John W. Bricker and Sen. Harry F. Byrd was proposed by Texas' commissioner of agriculture, J. E. McDonald, as leaders of the regularly-constituted convention gathered for a new test on the issue of 16 years in the White House for President Roosevelt.

There was no official connection between his suggestion and today's meeting of the State Democratic executive committee, which faced a demand by pro-Roosevelt Democrats that the names of electors selected at the rival May 23 convention be submitted to the voters on the July 22 primary ballot.

Anti-Administration regulars, who picked a group and instructed them not to support the party presidential nominee unless the two-thirds nominating rule is restored and other conditions are met, contended that their action constituted the final choice of electors.

Action either way by the executive committee may plunge the issue into the courts.

Raid Alerts Ended For Three Months

Although hailing Sunday's air raid test, during which 40 planes dropped 160,000 paper bombs and 300,000 Fifth War Loan circulars on Greater Boston, as a splendid success, officials of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety announced today that because of Army regulations there will be no more raid alerts in Massachusetts for at least three months.

Bad weather grounded 60 more planes which were scheduled to take part in the raid, forced a delay of more than an hour in start of the alert and caused cancellation of the paper bombing in all parts of the state except Boston.

The last-minute change in time resulted in considerable confusion, and J. W. Farley, director of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, admitted that many Boston air wardens, unaware of the switch, went home at the sounding of the second alarm or red alert signal.

This was the signal on which they were supposed to halt traffic between 2:35 and 3:05 p. m., but only about 20 per cent of the wardens were on duty.

When reports came in that pedestrians and traffic were moving after the red alert in the downtown area, the police safety car was sent through the districts blaring out instructions and order was quickly restored.

Director Farley said there was no confusion in the suburbs.

F. D. Seen in Race, Leaning to Wallace

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—President Roosevelt's "inner circle" advisers are telling top Democratic leaders today he definitely has made up his mind to seek 16 years in the White House.

Presidential advisers say he fans personally toward renomination of Vice-President Henry A. Wallace but they hope to persuade him to take another running-mate.

The "inner circle" is unanimous in opposing Wallace's renomination. They tell Democratic leaders Wallace would be a liability and hurt Roosevelt's chances.

Conservative members—like Mobilization Czar James F. Burnes and Stabilization Director Fred Vinson—favor a regular Democrat, like Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky or Speaker Rayburn of Texas. Some left-wingers, like David K. Niles, fourth term manager, are said to agree with the conservatives, but prefer Barkley to Rayburn.

Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter is said to lead a faction which feels the President should take a Republican as a running-mate in order to present a unity ticket. Frankfurter's first choice for the post is said to be his associate, Justice Owen J. Roberts of Pennsylvania, of Union Now fame.

There is a possibility the "unity ticket" faction may even try to sell the President on taking Wendell Willkie for a running-mate in event the 1940 GOP nominee would accept. However, it is no White House secret that Mr. Roosevelt does not look upon Willkie with much favor.

A few presidential advisers favor drafting Secretary of State Hull, who refused the vice presidential nomination in 1940.

8 Million Postwar Jobs, U. S. Problem

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—After victory, says the Senate's special postwar planning committee, business and industry in the United States must employ 8 to 10 million more persons than have ever been employed before in peacetime.

A report presented today by Chairman George (D.) of Georgia estimated than even if two or three million men are retained in the armed forces, full employment must be available for between 54 and 56 million persons.

This compares with the pre-war peak of approximately 46 million nemployed, reached in 1929, 1937 and again in 1940.

"This country never has had and never will have real prosperity without full employment," the report declared, adding the huge number of jobs that must be provided "presents a challenge almost as grave as the challenge of war."

President employment in the country was estimated at about 50,000,000, exclusive of those in the armed forces. The overtime work they're putting in was reckoned the equivalent of an additional 5,000,000 persons.

After the war, the committee said, 4 or 5 million of the war workers will want to return to school, or withdraw from the labor market entirely. Offsetting this, of course, will be the discharged veterans.

"The first six months following victory will see the greatest accession to the civilian labor market," the report stated.

"The armed forces will be demobilized at a rate of from 500,000 to 600,000 per month. All war production will cease.

The committee declared the only answer to the full employment problem is "a much greater gross national production than this country has ever produced in peacetime."

"Optimism today is not easy, but who wants the optimism that is easy?" he said. "That is not the kind that has for long been sustaining. We are in a time of revolutionary change."

Tregaskis Tells How Hole In His Skull Was Closed

By RICHARD TREGASKIS

WALTER REED GENERAL HOSPITAL, Washington, June 12 (INS)—The day before the operation finally to patch up my shrapnel-punctured skull the doctor showed me the plate of tantalum. It was curved, oval in shape, about as big as a tablespoon, very smooth and streamlined.

The doctor held it proudly between thumb and forefinger, as if it were a new model car or plane.

Today, just a week later, that plate, is part of my skull.

The contour of the skull is now as regular as before it was broken by a piece of German mortar shell in Italy, and, most important, just as strong.

Already I feel strong and can walk, and within a few weeks, I'll be able to go back to my job as a war correspondent.

It's a miracle to me but it's routine to the surgeons here, where more than 40 skulls have been restored with the new metal and method.

Here are a few facts about the amazing method of skull restoration:

First, the man with the hole in his head is checked over with a brain-wave machine to see how extensive his brain damage is.

Another check is the insertion of oxygen into the spine, by lumbar puncture—effective as a check, but a powerful headache-producer.

Then the chief of dental service takes a moid of the area to be covered. From this mold he cuts a piece of tantalum, one-fifteenth of an inch thick, to size, and presses it to shape.

Then comes the operation. Under local anaesthesia I felt the cutting of the scalp as the bone was exposed; and then, the impact of the chisel and hammer as surgeons cut a ledge around the endge of the hole, so the plate would fit in place.

Once placed, the plate was fastened securely with small wedges of tantalum, just as a glazier fixes a piece of glass in place.

Tantalum is a rare element, more like lead than silver in atomic weight. It is pliable, relatively inert, and, most important, it does not irritate human tissue, as silver and other metals do.

From this, the summer home of former City Councilor John J. McGrath on Peggoty beach, Scituate, local and State Police today were centering their search for little Marion McGrath, 10, who disappeared mysteriously just before the thunder storm and rain of Saturday night.

Lost Girl

where the McGraths and their six children make their home.

This is being pressed on the theory the child may have had an impulse to leave their summer home, at Peggoty Beach, Scituate, to see her chums in the city.

South Shore communities are deeply stirred over the little girl's disappearance. She was beloved by adults and children at the beach colony.

Yesterday, last night and today, police and other searchers literally swept a seven-mile shore line and far inward, from the Marshfield boundary at North river to Shore Acres, Scituate.

Frances had left her home at about 7 p. m. She was going to St. Mary's of the Nativity Church in Scituate to make her confession.

FATHER DISTRAUGHT

It was a fairly long walk for a little girl but she was not going to let her father drive her, because she wanted everyone to see her new clothes.

Her mother, distraught from worry and ill for lack of sleep or ability to eat, today recalled how pretty she looked. Her freckled face, hair in pigtails, her brave little hat with a feather in it—and the brown cloth purse and brown gloves.

In the purse was a nickel. The child treasured it because after church she would go to Pinkham's drug store and buy an ice cream cone. She did.

Then she went to the Santuit Recreation Center, appared to be searching for someone, walked out into the darknes sand left behind a mystery that left her family with heartbreaks.

In all the churches yesterday announcement of her disappearance was made.

Considering the possibility the child might have spent the night with a chum in the town, police watched at St. Mary's of the Nativity to see if she would appear for communion.

It was a futile vigil.

Brockton Seeks Paper Record

Hopeful of shattering the waste paper collection record of nearly 12 pounds per capita established last week by the town of Milton, Brockton residents began curb collections today while Boston salvage officials scheduled a conference with New England representatives of various magazines to plan new ways of increasing amounts of reclaimed paper.

Milton, according to B. C. Waters, Jr., secretary of the Massachusetts Salvage Committee, collected 214,000 pounds of waste paper last week, better than 30 per cent over its quota for a population of 18,000.

Waters declared the Milton collection a "creditable achievement and a per capita showing that other cities and towns will find it difficult to beat." He added, however, that chairmen of local committees had served notice they were accepting the challenge and would top the Milton collection.

Meeting with the magazine representatives will be the regional salvage manager of the War Production Board and Sec. Waters in response to urging by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB, to all magazines in the country to lend aid in the drive for collection of waste paper, now placed as one of the most vitally needed supplies to back the invasion.

Tax Amending Day Nears--If You Care

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—If you're paying on a declaration of estimated federal income tax—because of income not covered by the withholding system—you may want to file an amended declaration and change your June 15 payment.

There won't be any penalty if the recent change in the law results in an underestimate of your tax as finally figured next March. However, you might find a new declaration worth while in either of two cases:

1—If the new tax simplification or a change in dependency in your family reduces your tax.

2—If the new law raises your tax, and you want to spread out the increase over three payments. This point applies particularly to childless married couples.

REDUCTION FOR SOME

The tax simplification law reduces the 1944 tax for those with two or more dependents.

What's more, it broadened the definition of dependent to include any close relative dependent for more than half of his or her support during the year. The only other requirement is that the dependent must have less than $500 of income during the year. (Income of more than $500 makes a person a taxpayer, regardless of age.)

Now a taxpayer sending a son or daughter to college may take an exception for the child even if more than 18 years old.

The new definition also works out in these ways:

1—A full - year exemption is granted for a child born any time during the year.

2—If a dependent dies during the year, the exemption holds for the entire year.

Similarly, if a wife or husband dies during the year, the full-year exemption is allowed.

For a starter, subtract 10 per cent of income (or $500 if income is $5000 or more) for the new standard deduction. The remainder is taxed in two ways:

1—The normal tax. For this, the taxpayer gets an exemption of $500. The balance is taxed at 3 per cent.

2—The new surtax. For this, there's an exemption of $500 for each dependent on the taxpayer's income—the taxpayer himself, wife or husband, each dependent.

On the balance of income, the rate is 20 per cent on the first $2000; 22 per cent on the next $2000; 26 per cent on the third $2000.

What Second Front Is Like to Men in It

By CLARK LEE

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, June 10 (delayed)—(INS)—This is the second front for which millions have been waiting. Here is what it's like:

On the Cherbourg peninsula, along the Anglo-American right flank it turns out to be a Kentucky kid named Rafe who parachuted out of the skies five days ago, firing his carbine at a 20-year-old German behind a hedgerow. If the American outshoots the German we can advance.

It turns out to be seven wrecked tanks on the main Carentan-Cherbourg road north of St. Mere Eglise. Five German mark IV's, painted yellow and carrying long-snouted, flare - muzzled 88's and two American tanks are flopped on their sides only 30 yards from a mark IV in through whose turret there were two perfect 75-mm shell holes. If the Grmans had outshot our tankmen we'd still be fighting for St. eMre Eglise.

It turns out to be the quietest battlefront many of our veterans have seen, with for hours at a time no sound louder than a rifle shot or the rattle of machine guns.

PEASEFUL COUNTRYSIDE

It turns out to be a peaceful countryside, only here and there scarred by war, but becoming increasingly so as we have inland The fields still are unchurned by shellfire, although here and there a dead cow lies amod splintered wrecks of trees.

Our swift advance inland left behind farmhouses and villages almost undamaged, whose inhabitants are going about their normal business of milking cows and tending gardens in which cabbages and artichokes grow side by side with giant pale pink roses.

Further inland it is a different story. The towns begin to be beaten up by shellfire and bombs. Residents who fled to the countryside are returning after they are certain in their own minds the Americans will stay here. They start to clean up their damaged homes and shops.

Bodies of Americans and Germans are in roadside ditches and fields. Our bodies are covered with parachutes and blankets. The Germans stare nakedly at the sky.

Because the bodies are scattered in groups of seeldom more than five ir ten, there isn't any impression of large-scale killing yet.

HUNT DOWN SNIPERS

The ping of a sniper's bullet sends men flat on their bellies on the roadside. They crawl, fanning out to hunt down the Germans and either kill or capture them.

So far this area of the second front is a murderous game of cops and robbers through the woods and fields just preliminary to the real battles to come when we hit the positions the Germans have to hold.

Here is a wrecked convoy of 14 vehicles on the Carentan-Cherbourg road. Our planes caught the convoy bringing reinforcements to the beachhead on D-Day. Some vehicles were strafed and some ran into the ditches, where German dead still lie.

The vehicles and the bodies tell the story of why he were so successful in this sector. Those thousands and thousands of planes that American workers are turning out for American boys are the answer.

and three times a day where most troopships serve only two meals.

The afternoon starts in leisurely fashion with the top-deckers finding amusement in the antics of the GI's below. It is the troops' first chance to relax, and they make the most of it. One group surrounds a trumpet player, another a saxophonist. But the main diversion, as always, is the dice games.

The boys had spent a harsh night, herded like cattle in their low-ceilinged compartments.

But there are few bleats, plenty of merry banter. "First time in my life I ever washed my face with my hat on," quips one youngster. They had slept with their clothes on, would continue to do so until arrival.

A second boat drill is on the docket for 3:30. At its close, many of the first class civilians, including the writer, repair below decks with a severe case of sunburn. Is this vacation?

WHAT! NO TEA?

Dinner is butterless, but coffee is served for the third time. Three meals and not a cup of tea in sight. "You may have it on request," says the British waiter politely.

Entertainment is not organized as yet, and so the officers' lounge is the most popular rendezvous in the evening.

Card games for huge stakes ($40 a card at blackjack in one game) are the officers' idea of fun, and it is interesting to see a lieutenant beat a white colonel out of a sizable pot. Red Cross girls play the piano, play bridge and write letters.

Blackout has been in force since 7:45, and lights go out at 10. There are no squawks. The day has been eventful but tiring. In addituon, we are to lose the first of six hours on the crossing, so now it is actually 11 p. m. The sea is still calm. A good night's sleep is promised — but only for the Mr. Five-by-Fives.

Bedtime thought: How about laundry? Trunks are stored in the hold, and the zipper bag holds only a week-end change of clothing. But it is getting late. Like Scarlett O'Hara, we can think about that tomorrow. So off with the life-preserver for the first time in 14 hours, and to bed with feet extended over the end of the bunk like a springboard.

James Callanan Rites Tomorrow

The funeral of James J. Callanan, 73, of 1119 Saratoga st., East Boston, will be held tomorrow with a solemn high mass of requiem at 9 a. m. in St. Joseph's Church, Orient Heights, with burial at Winthrop Cemetery. He died at his home after a long illness.

Callanan, a resident of East Boston for more than 45 years, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary A. Callanan, a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Lamplough of Arlington, and four sons, Capt. John J. of the AAF, stationed in Florida; Maj. William A., stationed in Kentucky; Edward V., fireman 1c, U. S. C. G., and James J. night picture editor of the Daily Record.

America's Battle Dead Put In Temporary Beach Graves

By JOHN A. MOROSO, III

AN AMERICAN BEACHHEAD CEMETERY, France, June 9 (delayed) (AP)—Stretched out on their backs with their pitiful personal belongings beside them on this bomb-blasted, shell-scorched bit of the Normandy beach lie the American dead—men and boys who paid the supreme price for wrestling this strongly fortified position from the Nazis in a daring daylight amphibious assault.

They lie here mutely waiting while trops dig long trenches for temporary mass burial. Nearby, also awaiting burial, are the bodies of 10 Germans and two Britons.

Negro troops digging these common graves labor silently with an occasional awed glance at the stiff forms under the white covers.

This is America's first cemetery in France in this war. It is not a pretentious place. A few days ago it was a German minefield separating beach defenses from rugged pill boxes and forts in a steep hill a few hundred yards from the ugly, rock strewn beaches.

When the Americans swarmed over the beaches through murderous surf, angry German guns mowed them down. The cold greedy water of the wrathful channel, lashed by a three-day wind, clutched at some, sucking them down.

Big Nazi Mark V Tanks in Battle

LONDON, June 12 (INS)—The London Daily Mail quoted a dispatch from headquarters, 21st Army Group in France as stating that the Nazis have thrown their monstrous Mark V Tiger tanks into a battle now raging on a 15-mile front from Caen to Bayeux.

The Germans also are using their Mark II, IV and new Mark V Panther tanks but, the Daily Mail declared, the "Allies are matching everything hurled against them."

(Editor's note: The new Mark V tank is equipped with 75.55 caliber guns which the Germans claim have double the range and armor piercing power of any other tank.)

'Rommel's Reception Center'

By LARRY ALLEN

The world may know within a fortnight how long the war in Europe may last.

For Germany's High Command says the supreme test will come when the Allied armies hit the "Rommel Reception Line."

It's the "Second Atlantic Wall."

As I got the picture from Germans and the German press while in a German prison camp, this is a powerful chain of "command forts" stretching from Ghent in Belgium to Rennes, due south of Cherbourg. This was the area in which the Germans expected attack, but at Rennes the line presumably connects with Brittany peninsula defenses.

I cannot say positively that it was not propaganda, although it did not fit the usual pattern of campaigns to boost home morale or confuse the Allies, but here is how the Germans described the line:

HEAVILY FORTIFIED

It is composed of vast underground, heavily fortified defenses, bristling with thousands of heavy caliber guns and mazes of anti-tank traps.

The line at no point is less than 30 miles and no more than 60 miles inland from the Atlantic coast.

It runs from Ghent to Arras, Beauvais, thence slightly west of Paris along the Seine river, thence southward to Argenton and finally Rennes as the southernmost end.

A few weeks before the Allies stormed the "fortress of Europe" Marshal Rommel thoroughly inspected the "second Atlantic wall." He told German newspapermen:

SHOWDOWN TEST

"Here the enemy shall not pass. This will be the supreme and crucial test. Every one of these positions must be and will be defended to the last man."

Rommel, ace master of defense for Nazi Germany and nicknamed "the desert fox" because of his brilliant exploits in North Africa, is supported in this view by Western Commander General Field Marshal von Rundstedt.

There is little question but what one of the biggest showdowns and the first real test of power will come when the Allies smash against this line.

Even Reichminister for Propaganda Goebbels, writing in his newspaper, Das Reich last month, finally admitted that "we cannot stop the enemy from landing but we can and we will stop him after he has landed."

Germany's "Second Atlantic Wall," with much accent upon its alleged invincibility, has been topline news in Germany newspapers ever since the fall of April.

Every Gearman appeared to be convinced that it is on the "Rommel Reception Line" that the Allies would be stopped.

GERMANS CONFIDENT

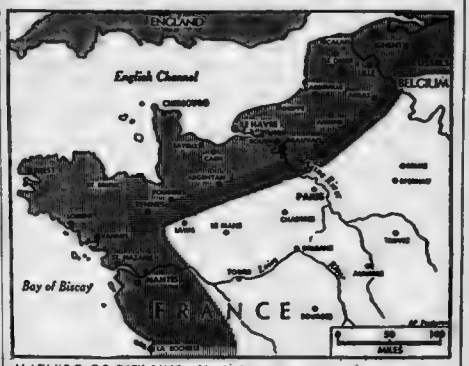
But they're nevertheless looking ahead to the future by saying that even if "by some diabolical perversion of fate" the Allies should smash through Atlantic Wall No. 2, they still have the reversed once-famous "Maginot Line" and the original "Siegfried Line" facing them as major headaches.

No German I have seen appears to be seriously worried about these possibilities. To them, Hitler is still tantamount to the Divine and until shown otherwise, they think Hitler knows the answer.

Germany's crack air, naval and military strategists, in articles analyzing the Allied chances of success, have declared that they must secure at least two good ports, such as Le Harve and Cherbourg, within two weeks after the initial assault, or their attack is doomed to failure.

These same strategists said that within two weeks after the invasion starts the answer will begin to crystallize as to wether the Allies can smash Germany's military power or will crash against an "unbreakable" line of steel and be stalemated, as at Cassino, in Italy.

And if the latter should happen, the Nazi high command believes that the worst that could possibly happen to Germany would be to emerge with a negotiated peace—and that, in a German's opiion, would be tantamount to victory.



NAZI "DO OR DIE" LINE—Shaded area shows line which, according to War Correspondent Larry Allen, the Germans are determined to hold against the Allies. Set behind Nazis' coastal defenses, and from 30 to 60 miles from the coast, it bristles with heavy fortifications.

nine miles east of Caen, by German account.

DRAWS NEAR ST. LO

A breakthrough here would link up infantry with parachute troops which the Nazis said had landed in the Troarn area earlier.

Heightening the prospect of encirclement of Caen was the German report of other parachute troop landings south of the town.

To the west, British troops also were flanking the town by a thrust through Tilly-sur-Seulles, where armored columns were engaged in fierce combat.

Still farther west, American forces were said by Allied headquarters to have smashed with gathering force beyond the flooded Merderet river at several points and into the Forest de Cerisy, a defense point for the communications hub of St. Lo.

Official reports said only that British and Canadians were holding satisfactorily along the explosive Caen line, but field dispatches declared Gen Montgomery launched a powerful encircling sweep, with the Allies driving ahead on both flanks around the town.

NAZIS RUSH RESERVES

Headquarters communique No. 13 reported that intense fighting against German armored columns raged without respite in the Tilly-Sur-Seulles area.

Field Marshal von Rundstedt was rushing reserves up from as far back as Paris to meet this mounting menace, but his new men and guns, and the roads over which they moved, were under bomb, cannon, rocket and machine gun fire of an Allied air armada which before noon had flown more sorties than all day yesterday.

Allied warships — among them the U. S. battleships Texas and Nevada and the cruisers Tuscaloosa and Quincy, and the British battleship Warspite—hurled tons of explosives miles inland upon German guns which still were able to subject the invasion beachhead to sporadic fire.

The targets of the warships were principally the Nazis' mobile guns, for by now virtually all fixed position defense batteries were knocked out.

The invasion beachhead was regarded as secure, and progress inland along the whole front, now roughly 55 miles wide, was viewed officially today with "sober satisfaction."

The fight had reached the phase of exploiting the beachhead success and now, favored by the best weather since D-Day, the team of Gens. Montgomery and Bradley was expected to accelerate operations.

Reactions of Hub Bomber Pilot

Enemy fire and flak ringing his plane in dives on Jap positions left Marine Sergt. Thomas W. Johnston, 21, Olmstead st., Jamaica Plain, with a "sort of abstract feeling."

"You realize the shots are there but it isn't until it's all over that you realize the danger," Johnson, who is now serving with a dive bomber squadron in the Marshall Islands, relates in a release today from a Marine Corps correspondent.

He gets more kick out of direct hits on targets which his plane has registered, the dispatch said.

"The targets really are 'pinpoint,' so I get quite a kick when our bomb smacked right in the center of a gun emplacement on Wotje. Another perfect hit was on a transportation pool yard."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Johnston.

Sunken Excursion Boat Where 17 Merrymakers Died

Death Pilots Launch—Crowded with Lake Erie sightseers, the excursion launch Olga capsized in Port Stanley Harbor . . . sending 17 merrymakers to their death. Choppy seas were blamed for the tragedy, which took place as the craft was returning to port.

Unified Defense Will Benefit America

THE UNITED STATES should never fight another war under divided commands.

And even if we do not fight any more wars after we effect the liberation of Europe and defeat Japan, the defense of the country will be a major job for the government, and not, as it has been in the past, a minor matter.

Senator Hill, of Alabama, has introduced a bill to create a "Secretary of Armed Forces."

This measure has the approval of the War Department and maybe of the Navy Department, which seems somewhat loath to relinquish its individuality.

The Hill measure proposes a "Department of Armed Forces."

The secretary would be chosen from civil life by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

The President also would be authorized to appoint civilian Undersecretaries for the Army, the Navy and for the Air.

Proposed also is the creation of a division labeled "The United States Chiefs of Staff," consisting of officers of general, or flag, rank to be headed by one officer to be Chief of Staff to the President.

This position would be analogous to that now occupied informally by Admiral William D. Leahy.

The division would bring together in an overall staff the Chiefs of Staff of the Army, Navy and Air Forces, who would be charged with the duty of "carrying on the functions of strategic planning, supply planning and operational direction of all of the armed forces."

THE MARVELOUS, spontaneous teamwork of our Military, Naval and Air Forces in the Pacific should convince any Doubting Thomases of the great advantages to be gained by the union of all our fighting resources and physical equipment under one department.

In the Allied assault on Hitler's European fortress the benefits of teamwork were similarly demonstrated.

It is wise, too, that the head of a "Department of Armed Forces" should be a civilian.

That is quite necessary in a democracy such as ours, where the concept of civil rights and civilians should take precedence over the military forces.

One of the great gains to the taxpayers of a consolidation of the Army, Navy and Air Forces under one department will be the saving of millions of dollars by the elimination of duplications.

The importance of this was explained in a recent statement by Secretary of War Stimson as follows:

"There have been in this war in spite of the earnest efforts of the military leaders of the two services at co-operation many duplications of time, materiel and manpower, with the loss of effectiveness, resources and power which such duplications inevitably produce.

"In planning the complex operations of modern warfare, almost every one of which involves sea, land and air elements, each separate service tends to make complex plans for the men, equipment and supplies which it deems necessary for a complete operation.

"Duplication thus inevitably results, which under the present organization can only be successfully reduced or eliminated after much time and effort, and then only incompletely."

THEREFORE, from any standpoint the merger of our armed forces should become a FACT.

We Americans are going to face a threatening postwar world.

We must face it UNIFIED in spirit and in fact.

In that unification, DEFENSE WITHOUT DIVISION must prevail.

Prayer . . . By George E. Sokolsky

Copyright, 1944, King Features Synd., Inc.

MAY I DISAGREE with those who criticize the President for praying over the radio? It is a gain in this age if our rulers feel called upon to pray to God for Victory. Up to now, most of them, Mussolini, Hitler and even some on our side, except Winston Churchill, have been so sure of themselves. In Roosevelt's prayer there was an overtone of humility—and that is a gain.

The truly noble or our race always possessed great quantities of humility. Lincoln left a heritage of humility.

There are those who say that Mr. Roosevelt should have called in a clergyman to do the praying—but we are of such mixed religions that to call in only one would have been an offense to the others and to have three or four do it, might have made the occasion less dramatic and appealing. So the President prayed for all.

ANOTHER CRITICISM hurled at the President's prayer seems to be unjustified. It is suggested that instead of composing his own prayer, he should have used an ancient liturgical one, such as the Lord's Prayer.

But that would not have been in the modern manner and we must be modern at any cost in this age even when we do things so ancient that they stem back to the very roots of our existence.

Individual, spontaneous prayer, often spoken in public at dinners and banquets, has become an American custom.

Sometimes on such occasions when the clergyman is called upon to say the blessing, he speaks so long and so ardently that he leaves the hired orators with little to say. And that may be an improvement on the hired oratory.

I once heard a clergyman at a Republican banquet open it with a prayer that took half an hour in which he answered in advance all the arguments of the great statesmen invited to speak on that occasion.

The only reason that he did not spoil anything was that after the first few minutes, everybody wondered whether the Lord required that much instruction.

THE ANCIENT Hebrews were masters at prayer. It was their art; their greatest contribution to the art of the human race. They were never much good at politics, usually falling into the traps of their adversaries, but they knew how to pray.

And their prayers have been answered in the sense that if life for them has been hard, at least they survived their enemies.

Psalm 124, for instance, is a wonderful wartime prayer and fits our present situation to perfection, even as though its author had been reading the news since Pearl Harbor.

In fact, the genius of those ancient Hebrews lay in their ability to write for eternity. In this Psalm 124, there is no mistaking whether the victory came from God or the speaker, the latter making no claims for himself at all. Let me quote that prayer:

"If it had not been the Lord who was on our side,
When men rose up against us;
Then they had swallowed us up quick,
When their wrath was kindled against us;
Then the waters had overwhelmed us,
The stream had gone over our soul:
Then the proud waters had gone over our soul.
Blessed be the Lord,
Who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth.
Our soul is escaped as a bird out of the snare of the fowlers;
The snare is broken, and we are escaped.
Our help is in the name of the Lord,
Who made Heaven and earth.'"

And perhaps at this time, even the proudest of men, those filled most with their own greatness, might realize what greater wisdom lies between the covers of the Good Book than in the pen-proud words of living men.

Charming is the word for you,

Having you makes troubles disappear.
Always in your arms I long to be,

—EILEEN JOHNSTON.

I HAVE BEEN trying to get some some acrostics for wives and sweethearts to send to men in the fighting forces. Will start off with the above. Subscribers who feel that way about somebody named Charles may enclose it in the next letter . . . The last time I saw Rome was in June, 1939. The buses were burning wood to develop power. Taxicabs were burning anything that would make the engine go. Some taxis were said to be using a mixture of wine and gasoline. There were over 4000 horse cabs in service. I stuck to the horse cabs. In 1939 it was against the law to blow an auto horn in Rome. This made approaching an intersection or a sharp turn a moment of some apprehension. Especially at night.

IL DUCE: In 1939, Mussolini ordered a cut in coffee consumption. A wave of indignation swept Italy. Il Duce quickly rescinded the order. On a balcony Mussolini acted very much the dictator. At other times he was a little nervous as to what his countrymen thought of him. He was afraid to go to some parts of Italy lest he be bumped off. He avoided Sicily as much as possible. Sicilians hated him.

CITY LIMITS: Rome is the largest municipality in area in the world. Los Angeles, with its celebrated city limits, is just not in it with the Italian capital. The population of Rome in 1939 was 1,200,000. The streets were full of strutting army officers attired in white summer uniforms. The young women of Rome have more "oomph" than those of any city in Europe. At least they did in June, 1939. These Roman cuties were featuring shoulder strap handbags and skirts at least 19 inches from the ground. The open air opera season was on. Italy had never before had opera in the open air. It was acknowledged in Rome the idea had been inspired by the success of Hollywood Bowl. Seats for the outdoor opera were from the equivalent of 25 cents to $1. Several stars of the Metropolitan Opera appeared, notably Beniamino Gigli.

"He read somewhere that it's very relaxing!"

TRAFFIC: In summer the traffic cops of Rome, called "the Metropolitani," wear white uniforms. Rome city traffic has always been a problem. In 117 A. D. the Emperor Hadrian made an exhaustive study of Rome traffic. At that time Hadrian originated the one-way street and the white line in the center of boulevards. History does not tell whether the Rome traffic cops of 117 A. D. handed out tickets. No doubt they did.

ST. PETER'S: The most interesting sight to me in Rome was St. Peter's. Sixty thousand persons can attend services in this church at the same time. Worship at St. Peter's is practically continuous. It has 29 altars . . . Napoleon took 100 pictures from the Vatican and placed them in the Louvre in Paris. After the Battle of Waterloo, 72 of these paintings were returned. The most valuable picture in Rome in 1939 was Titian's "Sacred and Profane Love." J. P. Morgan offered $7,000,000 for this painting. The offer was refused. Hitler probably has this painting in Germany now.

ROUND THE TOWN: In June, 1939, there were about 40,000 dogs in Rome. They were all muzzled. As competition for outdoor opera, there was night harness racing at a track called the Villa Gloria. Admission was equivalent of 60 cents. There were pari-mutuels and bookies. The minimum bet was five lira, then about 25 cents. The Villa Gloria was a beautiful, well-lighted race course. Italy was quite a racing country. The harness horses alternated with the runners. In June, 1939, the harness horses were in Rome and the runners in Milan. The 1938 champion runner of Italy was named Nearco. In 1939 this horse was sold to a British breeder for $300,000.

THE ABUSED Husbands' Association is the name of a Flint, Mich., organization. The members of this club meet weekly and discuss their domestic difficulties . . . At some Oregon County Fairs, one event is a tail wagging contest for dogs. The pup that wags his tail the most times in a minute is the winner. The record is 320 wags a minute. Have you a dog that can beat it?

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, June 12—Right out of New York comes word Jack Warner has added "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" to his list of New York plays. Jack, who has spent money unstintingly for New York hits, is starting with a schedule that is terrific from the standpoint of an investment in screen material.

The price reported paid for this murder thriller is $225,000. It was the play in New York with Elizabeth Bergner and Victor Jory. It's old-fashioned melodrama but the kind the theater-going public eats up. Speaking of the Warner purchases, the press agent of "The Wallflower" has sent me an avalanche of publicity in which he states the New York reviews were favorable—I done his play wrong!

SAM GOLDWYN has concluded a deal with George Hirliman, head of Film Classics, a new organization, whereby all the Goldwyn pictures with the exception of those made the last year will be re-issued throughout the world. The deal has been in negotiation for six months and was concluded for 31 pictures, among them "Wuthering Heights," "Hurricane," "The Westerner," "The Kid From Spain," "Dead End," "Goldwyn Follies," "The Cowboy and the Lady," "Barbary Coast" and "Stella Dallas." Eddie Alperson, head of the RKO theater circuit, is a member of the Film Classics organization. In the casts of these pictures are such stars as Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart, Merle Oberon, Eddie Robinson, Eddie Cantor and Ronald Colman.

YOU CAN WELL imagine the excitement of Joan Lorring, 18-year-old who gets a chance to play the coveted role of "Bessie Watty" in "The Corn Is Green" with Bette Davis. With such stars as Ida Lupino and Betty Field mentioned for the role, Joan gets a break. I asked Jack Warner to tell me about the girl whose only screen appearance was in a bit in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." He says she was born in Hong Kong and her father is a Japanese prisoner of war. Joan and her mother have been living here and she has been on the air with such stars as Ronald Colman, Walter Pidgeon and Charles Laughton.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG on a movie about a boy and his dog, and that's what Columbia figures in lining up a yarn called "Rusty" for 8-year-old Ted Donaldson. He's the youngster who played with Cary Grant in "Once Upon a Time" and who is doing the kid brother in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." "Rusty" was an unusual dog story, if there is such a thing. It's about a little boy who gets hold of a dog bred and raised in Nazi Germany—a mean, vicious animal. I'll give you three guesses about how the plot goes from there.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The lunch crowd at the Hollywood Brown Derby had all but cleared out. Except for a few stragglers, the place was empty. All of a sudden the cigarette girl and cashier almost swooned. Walking straight through the front door with a four-months-old baby in his arms was a young man wearing a bow tie. "Want to see the baby?" asked Frank Sinatra, for that was who it was. What's more, Frankie went to a booth and parked his son on the seat beside him while he ate a plate of spaghetti. And all the time they were there no Mrs. Sinatra, or even a nurse showed up. Must have been Frankie's day for minding the baby.

WALTER WINCHELL tossed one of his famed orchids on our industry when he bestowed on it the Page One award on behalf of the Newspaper Guild of New York. Said Walter: "Hollywood is more than a city of shadows and sound . . . It is a place where an entire industry and the people in that industry make their daily contribution to our way of life . . . And to the fight for the preservation of that way of life . . . And so it seems only natural that the Newspaper Guild of New York should honor the film industry with a Page One award . . . An award which thanks the film industry for the incomparable contribution of its people and their films to a democratic victory."

★ ★ ★

'TIS WHISPERED Robert Young may be borrowed by Warners for the male lead in "God Is My Co-Pilot." Maybe Jack Warner is taking Humphrey Bogart's walkout at face value and giving the role to another actor. I thought the flurry would all be settled ere this, since their tiffs are not usually of long duration.

★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Judy Garland and John Hodiak were a surprising dance twosome at Mocambo; a new song writer is expected in the Frank Loesser family in six months. Papa wrote "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" and is in charge of Army music now; Bubbles Schinasi's five-year-old son, Wayne Morris, Jr., joins his mother on the Coast. Incidentally, Wayne's current wife, the former Patricia Stewart, has named her baby daughter Patricia Ann. Wayne, on duty in the South Pacific, has never seen the new baby; Gene Autry has been given his wings in the Air Corps and has been transferred from Detroit to Dallas. He is still hoping to be sent overseas; Wanda Tuchok's newest job is adapting Cosmopolitan's story, "Our Moment Is Swift" by Dale Eunson, Tommy Dorsey and Pat Dane arrive in time for Jimmy Dorsey's opening at the Palladium Tuesday; the Ronald Colman baby is expected within the next few weeks; Harry Crocker and Garbo were at an auction the other eve. What does this mean, Harry?; Martha Tilton leaves for overseas very soon to entertain the boys; David Selznick and Alfred Hitchcock are discussing a new five-year deal; the following ad appeared in the paper: "Movie star wants maid. Will pay $5 more than she is worth"; Sergt. Glenn Ford of the Marines is making a short at Warners and his wife, who is Eleanor Powell, is mighty happy to have him in Hollywood; Warners have optioned Steve Fisher's new novel, "Cat Loves Tony."

INVASION SHOW To Have 12 Events

Twelve spectacular demonstrations of the might and skill of our armed forces will highlight the program for INVASION SHOW, to be staged in Charles River Basin on the afternoon of July 4 in connection with the Fifth War Loan drive.

Hailed as the most colorful and impressive military spectacle ever put on in Boston, it is being sponsored by the retail merchants of this city and produced by the U. S. Treasury Dept., with units of Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Chemical Warfare and Merchant Marine participating.

Here is what the spectators will see:

1—Invasion barges and all types of landing craft in action.

2—Skip and precision bombing of targets.

3—Use of landing nets by nimble crews.

4—Servicemen swimming through burning oil.

5—Use of radio-controlled target boats.

8—Navy P-T boats in operation.

9—Plane rescues.

10—Flight formations by Army fighters and bombers and Navy blimps.

11—Coast Guard lifeboat races and "upset" drill.

12—Demonstration of Army and Coast Guard amphibious "ducks."

Coast Guardsmen and the Navy will be in charge of the water stunts, while the Army will assign 300 or more experts to handle its amphibious craft and tanks. The Army Air Force will be represented by bombers and fighters, and the Navy by seaplanes and amphibious units.

The INVASION SHOW was arranged by federal authorities as a result of the greatest co-operative effort ever undertaken by local merchants. The managements of these firms, all members of the Boston Retail Trade Board, instead of attempting individual promotion projects as in previous bond drives, decided the most effective method would be a community business contribution to the war effort.

POOL INFLUENCE

It was voted to underwrite the financial cost, and a plan was adopted to pool the influence and facilities of the various establishments in an intensive drive for the sale of E, F and G War Bonds at all stores of the Retail Trade Board group. These bonds cost respectively $18.75, $37.50 and $75.

Customers and employes who purchase war bonds will be presented with tickets for the INVASION SHOW, to be worn on coats or dresses. Admission will be limited strictly to the holders of these tickets, who will be admitted to a large roped-in area on the Boston side of the Esplanade patrolled by local and military police.

The Boston Retail Trade Board and members of the general committee have given much time and energy to preparations for the INVASION SHOW, which is regarded as a great builder of morale at this psychological stage of World War II.

Earle D. Warner is general chairman of the INVASION SHOW committee; Larry Bitner and Edward L. Hubbard are co-chairmen; Albert F. Cummings, finance; Will Brown, publicity and John C. Nicodemus, program and events.

There will be a joint meeting of all Boston Retail Trade Board bond-selling captains Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. at Hotel Bradford Roof, at which detailed instructions will be received and reports of advance pledges given.

Q—Where do I go in Boston to get my honorable discharge pin, and also do I get mustering-out pay? My discharge reads: W. D. A. G. O. No. 55, Cir. No. 39?

F. W. M.

Fall River.

A—Apply at Hotel Buckminster, First Service Command Hq. Detachment, Kenmore sq., Boston, for pin. You are not entitled to mustering-out pay.

Q—Several years ago I took a young child out of an orphanage and raised him. Now he is going into the Army. He has contributed to my support. Am I entitled to an allotment? W. J. T.

East Boston.

A—Yes, you are eligible as the person who stood in loco parentis (in place of parent) to the boy. If the child was legally adopted you would simply complete a certificate of dependency and give it to the soldier to submit to his personnel officer; if the child was not adopted, you must obtain two affidavits from reputable persons in your community stating that they know the child was taken into your home and brought up as your own child, and that he recognized your authority.

Q—Is the present national service life insurance policy the same as United States government insurance? C. D.

West End.

A—No. The national life insurance is available only to service men and women of this war. The U. S. government insurance is available to those of World War I.

Q—Are the dependents of enlisted men of all grades, either Army or Navy, eligible for family allowance and allotment?

S. A. W.

Waban.

A—Yes, under the amendment to Servicemen's Dependents' Act in 1943, they are eligible.

V-Garden Crops Best Used Quickly

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Record-American-Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

Although late frost and the drouth have caused damage up to 25 per cent, Victory garden crops have survived pretty well and most of them now are beginning to pay dividends for the money and time put into them.

Early crops are ready for harvesting and in cases where some watering was done the quality is not bad at all.

COMMON GARDEN OK

Our garden on the Common has already produced spinach, beet-greens, iceberg lettuce and radishes, with peas about ready. Early beets and cabbage will also be available soon.

Many victory gardeners are also enjoying products from their gardens. Let me suggest that you start using crops a little early as they go by fast and will not retain their quality.

With several crops coming in at the same time many families will have surplus greens. These greens are now in excellent condition for canning and should be put up before they get tough.

If you are using pressure cookers be sure that the gauge is accurate. The State Extension Service, through the Home Making Department, is offering a gauge testing service to all who care to apply. Get in touch with your local county office for advice on canning.

SPRAY FORMULAS

Spray formulas are always confusing to the new gardeners. The most common complaint is that formulas are for large amounts and have no value to the grower using only a few gallons.

The following amounts may act as a guide: Lead arsenate, 2 level teaspoons to 1 gallon of water; magnesium arsenate, 4 teaspoons to the gallon; Bordeaux mixture, standard strength, 4 ounces copper sulphate, 4 ounces lime to 3 gallons water; note—use half strength for tomatoes; nicotine sulphate, 1 teaspoon to 1 gallon water.

Flea beetles still are bothering tomatoes and should be controlled. Half strength Bordeaux-arsenate spray or copper-lime dust is the best control.

Keep land mellow and level so as to catch any rain

Bridegroom Late

By BETTY ALDEN

BRIDES COME after bombs in wartime priority, even with the bridegrooms. Lieut. Charles F. Willis, 3d, USN, who has won three Distinguished Flying Cross decorations and the Purple Heart and wouldn't think of being a second late for a bombing mission, was 15 minutes late for his own wedding.

Saturday evening at King's Chapel he married Grace Boardman "Bo" Eddy, daughter of Lieut.-Comdr. and Mrs. Randolph L. Eddy of Beacon st. The quarter hour delay was caused by difficulty in finding the groom a pair of shoulder boards for his white uniform. In the excitement he came to the church without any insignia and had to send the best man on a shopping spree to find some.

Despite the delay the wedding went off perfectly and was one of the prettiest we've seen. Rev. Dan H. Fenn officiated by candlelight. His scarlet and black robes a vivid contrast to the white gowns and uniforms of the bridal party. The lovely blonde bride wore an exquisite hoop skirted gown of white net appliqued with satin flowers, a rose paint halo, tulle veil and carried sweetheart roses.

★ ★ ★

SHE SET somewhat of a record with 12 bridesmaids, an unusually large number even for a big society wedding, and they were all very attractive in white gowns with different colored headdresses of roses and veiling, long gloves and velvet roses at the waistline. The bridesmaids' contrasting color was coral, the matrons of honor deep blue, and the three honor maids, fuchsia, purple and violet.

Charlie gave his bride a diamond and ruby replica of his wings.

Next to the bride the most excited girl at the wedding was bridesmaid Lee Withington who tore off to meet the 9 o'clock train on which her fiance, Lieut. Henry Atkins was returning from Ft. Knox for their wedding tomorrow.

The other local bridesmaids were Eleanor Pingree, Mrs. Randolph P. Eddy (Jean Clark) wife of the best man; Mrs. Wm. E. Chambers, and Jeanne Barstow. The reception was at the Eddys'.

Toasting the couple were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Willis of Baltimore, his sisters who were in the bridal party; Ann and Bob Tappan (he was an usher), Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent with deb daughter Ann, who wore a dreamy gown of coral organdie; Mr. and Mrs. George Pingree, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark, the Wm. D. Orcutts, Dorothy Garritt in champagne crepe trimmed with gold; Betsy Nichols, Joan Wyeth, Joan Perrin, Frances Baker, Mary Amory, Mary Frances Ludwig and many others.

Churchill, King May Visit France

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, June 12 (INS)—The belief prevailed in London today that Prime Minister Churchill, and possibly even King George VI, may visit the beachhead in Normandy at the first opportunity. Some circles believed that would be on consolidation of the beachheads and establishment of the Allied line "in depth."

Those who are close to Churchill say he is eager to visit the troops to hearten them, then make a personal report to the nation.

London circles also thought King George may visit the battlefront, perhaps with high-ranking generals of the United Nations.

Grand Hush-Hush Cream

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

HAVEN'T YOU OFTEN wished that you could find a hush-hush cream . . . the kind that goes under the arms for fastidious femininity . . . that's as exquisite and fluffy as your face cream . . . and stayed that way right down to the bottom of the jar? Well, there is one . . . which in its quiet, unassuming way . . . is an entirely new idea in cream deodorants. To begin with . . . it's a mere whisper of a cream . . . goes on like a dream . . . and does its vanishing act in the twinkling of an eye . . . leaving you totally assured that you're lovely from top to toe.

You, too, no doubt, are a sensitive gal . . . one of a legion who these warm days . . . want to be especially cautious of excessive underarm offensiveness due to hectic rushing about. So . . . right in the nick of time . . . comes this brand new cream deodorant that is really a cream . . . and of whipped-cream consistency at that . . . to help you form the lovely habit of being a lovely personality.

There is nothing grainy nor stiff about it. It is as white and cool-looking as the driven snow we'd like to import in summer when the heat bears down on us . . . and imparts a fresh coolness that's a warm-weather joy.

JUST THE THING FOR THE OUTDOOR GIRL

At a time when safeguarding our clothes is an important wartime consideration . . . it is nice to be able to pass on the news that this hush deodorant leaves even the most fragile dresses unharmed. And, it is so delicately perfumed that there is no trace of clinging scent to clash with your perfume.

If you're an outdoor girl . . . and subscribe to a program of sports especially on week-ends when you give vent to joyful pleasures . . . this nice, fluffy, cosmeticy-deodorant is all that you could ask for in a "protector" of good-grooming and girlish sweetness.

It is lifted by its sheer attractiveness out of the category of a social duty into that of a lovely habit . . . a necessary habit right now. You can use it as regularly as personal need dictates . . . but however frequent is your use . . . you'll always find that it answers the social niceties of good-grooming.

For the name of this fluffy cream deodorant, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A SURE WAY to fastidious femininity is the regular lovely habit of a hush-hush cream . . . smoothed under the arms for personal delicacy . . . especially before sun-basking as is Warner Star Cheryl Walker after a well-rounded health program.

Latest in Salads

By MARTHA LEE

WHOLE BOOKS have been written on salads, and all sorts of space devoted to them in other books on cookery. But if you have crisp greens, savory seasonings, and plenty of fresh eggs, why look further, for eggs in summer are so exactly right. With their good food value, plus accessories, they certainly satisfy.

Hard-cook the eggs according to up-to-date methods, which means they are not boiled, taking six as a basic number. Cut eggs in halves lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash them to a paste or rub through a strainer. Mix with them ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, pepper and paprika to taste, and mayonnaise enough to bind ingredients. Blend well. Refill egg whites with the mixture, piling lightly. Chill. Serve on lettuce or other salad greens with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Hot rolls or muffins go well, and cooked vegetables, well-chilled and marinated may be served with them. French fried potatoes, or potato chips heated through give crunchiness.

Pickled eggs make a nice variation. Drop the shelled, hard-cooked eggs into the juice of pickled beets, adding 2 slices of onion and a clove of garlic. Cover and set in the refrigerator for two or three days before serving. Slice them and serve on lettuce or in a mixed salad bowl. For this you will need:

MIXED SALAD BOWL

1 clove garlic
Lettuce
1 bunch watercress
1 cucumber, sliced
1 bunch radishes, sliced
½ cup celery, diced
6 hard-cooked eggs
French dressing

Rub the salad bowl with garlic (if liked to that extent). Tear lettuce into irregular pieces. Add cress, cucumber, radishes, celery, chopped or sliced eggs—which may be pickled. Have green perfectly dry. Pour over them enough French dressing to coat the greens. Season to taste, and mix by tossing lightly with a wooden spoon and fork.

Eggs jellied in aspic make a most attractive and also delicious salad.

JELLIED EGG SALAD

1 tbsp. gelatin
2 tbsp. cold water
2 cups hot stock
6 hard-cooked eggs
Salad greens
French dressing

Soften gelatin in cold water, then dissolve in hot stock, or bouillon made from cubes. Place whole shelled eggs in custard cups with ¼ inch of aspic in bottom. Chill. When remaining aspic begins to thicken, pour over the eggs. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce, cress, or what you choose, with a sharp or piquant French dressing.

EGG SLICES IN PEPPER RINGS

1 tbsp. gelatin
2 tsp. cold water
¾ cup tomato juice
½ tsp. minced onion
½ tsp. vinegar
½ tsp. sugar
1 bay leaf
½ tsp. salt
2 large green peppers
2 hard-cooked eggs

Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes, boil tomato juice, onion, vinegar, sugar and seasonings. Strain. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Cut tops from peppers and remove seeds carefully, keeping pepper whole. Place a cold shelled egg inside each pepper and fill space around egg with cooled tomato mixture, keeping egg upright. Chill. When firm slice crosswise in ¼ inch slices. Arrange 3 slices on lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Use canned pimiento instead of green peppers for cases, if desired.

Or use stuffed eggs for plain hard-cooked

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—Friday at the request of Mrs. David E. Finley of the Red Cross I went to visit the hospital at Camp Belvoir and saw something of the camp as well. There are several thousand men out there training to be engineers. I had a chance to talk to those who could come into the Red Cross room. Then I went through a number of wards, visited the nurses' quarters and finally saw the barracks occupied by the WACS.

★ ★ ★

THE WACS are decorating their own dayroom; doing their own painting, and the furniture ordered will, I hope, make it a very attractive place. At the back there is a beauty parlor, and the officers said to me rather apologetically that since the men had to have a barber shop they thought it was only fair that the women should have a beauty parlor. I heartily agreed.

I was shown the outdoor amphitheater which seats several thousand and stopped to talk to the men who are being reconditioned. They hike and drill and take special exercises. I was glad to find that they also have orientation courses.

I SAW A TEACHER back from a mission in Western China today, and he spoke with the greatest admiration of Madame Sun Yat Sen whom he and his wife had seen before leaving.

He said she seemed weary, and I wonder if any of us in this country can have the faintest understanding of the strain and the physical hardship which living today in a country like China entails for everyone. Inflation has reached such a point that even for those who have plenty of money, it is difficult to supply the bare necessities of life.

Flag Salute

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN, Will you please publish in your column the rules for saluting the flag? Thank you. G. R. E.

When the flag is passing in a parade or in a review, or during the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention, and salute.

Those present in uniform should render the right hand salute.

When not in uniform, men should remove their headdress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Men without hats stand at attention. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart.

The salute to the flag in the moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes.

Shy Girl Still With Us

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

"WHAT'S become of the shy girl?" is an inquiry which comes to this column pretty regularly. This question is put exclusively by bachelors.

Married men seem to have lost interest in the shy girl, but the bachelor is still curious about her.

Older men in the services, those between 25 and 30, when their thoughts wander to girls, think of the less sophisticated types. They dream about coming home and turning domestic. It's the very young man in uniform who doesn't stop to think hard about the future.

He's apt to marry quickly, this type of boy, and the girl he marries is not often shy, to say the least. These married-in-haste and repent-at-leisure folk are the kind that draw down the stop-look-and-listen warning.

And the shy girl who is still with us writes in some such plaint as this: "When I go to the canteen, I'm so tongue-tied I can't talk. I'm so bashful I don't act natural so I get few bids to dance. And the servicemen leave me for girls who are fresh."

The shy girl should leave no stone unturned to overcome this lack of self-confidence, and one of the best ways is to join a dramatic club. If there isn't a dramatic club in your community, why not organize one.

Tunic Jacket Extra Smart

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE cotton suit, which has come up to rival silk, crepe and all the grand suits as a town outfit, is apt to have one of those extra-smart tunic jackets this summer.

The one in Miss Dulin's sketch is what I mean. This kind of jacket which, when a little longer, is a coat, is an item in the styles that has a big future. It is likely to live quite a long time after our summer clothes are put away. And, certainly, for your sophisticated cotton suit, you couldn't do better than to pick one like this one with a tunic jacket.

Claire McCardell, who designed this model, makes it of a linen weave cotton, and trims it with heavy white stitching. It has the loose, medium-length sleeves she likes, which are both smart and cool looking.

"Well, what do you think of that, Benson? It's a cherry tree!"

George Holland

Boston After Dark

FOR MANY WEEKS this column has fondled the notion that Jack Sharkey, once the heavyweight champion of the world and now the quiet, modest, home-loving Squire of Chestnut Hill, would be a great bet for motion pictures . . . Each time we see the Squire, the possibilty of him making good in a solid fashion in the movies seems less remote.

★ ★ ★

WHEN THE IDEA first struck us—just after Jack returned from his USO tour of North Africa with Vernon "Lefty" Gomez—we talked it over with Jack Conway, sports editor of this newspaper and a major adviser and close friend of the man "who just missed being the greatest heavyweight of modern times" . . . Editor Conway was inclined to agree with the conclusion that Squire Sharkey was not only highly photogenic, but that he had enough mental agility to cope with the movies and their problems.

★ ★ ★

SO NOW WE SHOULD like to advance a step in trying to promote Mr. Sharkey into a Hollywood role, in the conviction that his first role will not be his last . . . In the first place, we have talked with Jack and have found that he is willing to have a go at Hollywood . . . In fact, he gave us a "green light," as they say . . . But the Squire of Chestnut Hill belongs to Boston . . . This is his adopted city, and although it has taken some time for Dame Boston to snuggle Jack Sharkey, the quondam "bad boy" of the heavyweights, to her ample, if figurative, bosom, the fact is obvious now that the Squire of Chestnut Hill has become one of the town's favorite characters.

★ ★ ★

THE TOWN, THEREFORE, should be "in" on developments in the effort to launch "the Sharkey man" on a new career . . . Here is the early program . . . It aims to cement the Squire's confidence in his ability to act in case he lacks it (which many veteran fight fans are convinced he doesn't) . . . If Mr. Sharkey will arrange with Marty Mullin and Abe Pinanski, the M. and the P. of the well-known theatrical chain trademarked under those initials, to have a film called "Hail the Conquering Hero" projected for the Squire's benefit, he will have taken an important step toward his ultimate (we hope) journey to Hollywood.

★ ★ ★

IN "HAIL THE CONQUERING HERO," Jack (and later the movie-going public) will see a stellar performance by a man who never appeared in his life before a movie camera, excluding newsreels . . . He is Freddy Steele, who plays the role of a Marine, and who used to hold a boxing title himself . . . Freddy is tremendous in the part, and the picture, partly through his efforts, is a bigger smash-hit than the recent sock "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" . . . The two films must be linked because the same man, Preston Sturges, was the brains of both . . . Preston wrote, directed and produced "Hail the Conquering Hero" (as he did "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek").

★ ★ ★

AFTER MR. SHARKEY sees Freddy Steele almost "steal" a picture from such fellows as Eddie Bracken, William Demarest and Raymond Walburn, veterans all, we feel that he will come out of the projection room saying to himself that he is home free as a thespian . . . (When Jack was convinced that he could do something, we understand, nothing could stop him).

★ ★ ★

AS THE NEXT STEP in launching "the Sharkey man" in movies, we are going to take definite action . . . We are asking Harry Browning to send a copy of this column to B. G. "Buddy" De Sylva, boss of production at Paramount . . . And another to Preston Sturges, care of Paramount.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Monday, June 12, 1944

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are ingenious, but not always constructive. Are able to be very practical when you really try. Your optimism and active buoyant nature may cause you to be unduly nervous or impatient if you are not mindful. Develop your artistic talents for home pleasure. Be actively interested in religion, it's your real standby in fair or foul weather. Birthdate: Julius Caesar, Roman statesman, soldier; George Eastman, inventor; Tod Browning and Jean Hersholt, actors.

Labor Ruling May Hit N.E. Race Tracks

By JACK CONWAY

THE MANAGEMENTS of the New England race tracks have been holding discussions in regard to the new problems they will face when the government takes over additional control of labor on July 1. It will then be necessary for a person to secure permission from the proper authorities before he will be allowed to work at a race track or any place else. The idea back of this move is to use the available labor supply where it is most needed.

The fact that most persons working at race tracks are employed for less than five hours may possibly give the tracks an exemption in the opinion of Willard Stevens of Suffolk Downs. The new rule, of course, will not affect anyone who is already employed at a track.

Bing Crosby

Tracks like Raynham, which have been giving preference to veterans of this war, will not be seriously effected. It is not expected that the government will insist that discharged veterans, most of whom have some physical defect, work in war plants. It is likely they will be allowed to seek employment at race tracks.

With many war plants and shipyards already reducing the number of their employes, it may not be necessary to take any of the race track help for the defense plants.

Racing has been able to adjust itself to numerous changing conditions and it is believed that it will solve its labor problem.

Mintlock Shows Speed

MINTLOCK SHOWED plenty of speed and lasting power as he raced to victory at Suffolk Downs on Saturday. For a time it looked as if Sollure would catch Mintlock. The weight then told on Sollure and he finished fourth. Defense came fast through the stretch, but he was beaten by the courageous Mintlock by a nose.

The crowd of slightly less than 20,000 was in a betting mood with the mutuel handle again topping the million dollar mark. With some signs of a letdown in certain kinds of defense work, it is probable that the peak in mutuel handles in New England has been reached. There may be some new marks on holidays and on days of special races, but it is unlikely that the average run of days will set new marks as was the case earlier in the season.

Racing will have its biggest season in the matter of mutuel handles, but many persons high in the sport are planning for the postwar days when the mutuel handles will probably not be as large as they are today. I look for bigger attendances at races in the postwar period. The receipts at the gate will offset some of the expected drop in the mutuel handle.

BING CROSBY has made it very emphatic that he will not conduct a race meeting at Del Mar if there is any danger it will cause an increase in absenteeism at war plants. Crosby would not wish do to anything, he says, that would in any way interfere with the war effort.

Crosby has been active in war charities, and has helped raise a great deal of money for various worthy causes. He has also aided in the sale of war bonds.

Now Bing is willing to pass up the profits of his race track if the meeting should in any way endanger the war effort.

Veterans' Race Friday

RUSS MURRAY'S Raynham dog track will conduct another race for the Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser on Friday. The four races already held have been very successful. It is Murray's ambition to raise $20,000 for the Disabled Veterans Fund.

West Coast Ace Fans 93 in 112 Innings

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 12—There are no indications that Rex Cecil, San Diego ace, is ready to let up in his record pitching pace.

Through June 4, the Padre twirling star had won a dozen games and lost only four. He had toiled in 112 innings, allowed only 18 earned runs, struck out 93 and issued 51 passes.

Red Sox May Reach First Place This Week

The Red Sox are on the march. Resting in second place today after a clean sweep of the four-game Yankee series the Cronimen expect before the week-end to erase the 1½ game margin the St. Louis Brown leaders now enjoy over them.

HIGH-MINDED—Eddie Stanky, Dodgers, goes high to take throw from Catcher Mickey Owen, but Connie Ryan, Braves, skids into second safe on his steal from first base in yesterday's first game at Brooklyn.

The Red Sox have the sagging Athletics for opponents here for four games. The first against the A's is a twilight affair at 6 tomorrow night with a twin bill Wednesday and a single Thursday before the boys leave for Washington for a series with the Senators. Feeble opposition is expected in the Capital since the bottom has fallen out of Ossie Bluege's outfit.

Meanwhile the pacemaking Brownies may run into tough going against the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers.

RAID CUTS CROWD

The air raid drill yesterday kept the crowd from reaching capacity proportions . . . At Fenway Park the reserved and box seats were all sold out days in advance. The vacant spaces were in the rush sections . . . Notifying the populace that they could ride between 1:00 and 1:30 p. m. and then changing the time of the start of the "bombing" to 2:00 o'clock kept countless fans from trying to get to the park.

The start of the twin-bill was shifted from 1:30 to 2:00 p. m. on the understanding that the "raid" would start at 1:00 o'clock . . . when the time was changed, public safety officials notified the Sox management to start play at 2:00 o'clock and to continue through the drill . . . One paper bomb dropped in the grandstand.

PEACOCK GOES TO PHILS

Tex Hughson's lifetime record against the Yanks is now nine victories and four defeats . . . his present 8-2 card makes him the standout major league pitcher as of today.

Johnny Peacock is no longer a Sox . . . After the twin bill, Gen. Mgr. Eddie Collins announced that the veteran catcher had been sold to the Phillies.

With the National League race a two-team affair between the Cards and Pirates, the present objective of the Braves is to reach the first division. They are only four games behind the fourth-place Giants who open a series at Braves Field next Saturday.

When one of Babe Ruth's cheer leaders in New York informed the tense sports world that following his recent knee operation the Bambino would be available for big league pinch hitting, he ignited a shot heard in every old man's sport home.

CHAPMAN A PITCHER

Temperamental Wes Ferrell is reported as freely admitting he would make an ideal outfielder for a major league team. Wes evidently forgets his two outfielding lapses against the Red Sox a dozen years ago when his two misjudged flies deprived Oral Hildebrand of Cleveland, of a no-hit game. Wes was then with the Indians.

Blazing Ben Chapman who has played the outfield for every team except Peoria is anxious to get back in the big loop and, of all things, as a pitcher. The Blazing One, at that has something. He has pitched seven games for his Richmond, Va. Colts of the Piedmont League and won them all. Ben is 35 years old.

Brookline Pair Win in Doubles

HARTFORD, Ct., June 12 (AP)—Most of the fireworks in the forty-first New England tennis championships on the courts of the Hartford Golf Club it appears were reserved for the final day and the chief pyrotechnics displayer was a 16-year-old youngster from Sinton, Tex., by the name of Ed Ray.

Ray first polished off third seeded John Gow of Simsbury in the lower bracket of the semi-finals this morning and then in the afternoon did an even more artistic job on fourth seeded Stephen Ogilvie of Bridgeport. Ray trounced Ogilvie 6—1, 6—1, to win the men's singles and in the process displayed almost perfect tennis. Ogilvie had eliminated top seeded Al Stitt of Boston in the morning, 6—3, 0—6, 8—6, in the biggest upset of the tournament.

Lee Wiley and Holbrook Hyde of Hartford bowed in the men's doubles final to Stitt and Harrison F. Rowbotham of Brookline, Mass., the number one seeded pair, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4.

Just before the Ray-Ogilvie match the largest gallery of the week had been treated to a dazzling exhibition as Mrs. Helen Pederson Rihbany of New York showed why she is ranked ninth nationally by defeating Mrs. Norma Taubele Barber, also of New York, 6—1, 5—7, 6—1 in the final of the women's singles.

Your Hair Grows Faster in Summer

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is a scientific observation made by various authorities. Why not take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting now to give your hair the care and attention which it deserves?

First, let Thomas remove those dandruff scales which may be causing your scalp itch. A Thomas expert can also tell you how and when to expose your hair to the sun and what to do about excessive perspiration on the scalp. Come in and see for yourself why a quarter-million other persons have turned their scalp problems over to Thomas experts. Morehouse Rested For Newton Test

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Medford High School continues to roll happily along in the good graces of Lady Luck. It almost seems as though Coach Art Tirrell ordered rain for the week-end so that he could give his ace pitcher, George Morehouse, an extra rest.

With such breaks going in the Mustangs' favor, it's pretty tough trying to pick the winner of the Medford-Newton final of the Eastern State baseball championship play-off scheduled for 5:15 this afternoon.

Medford, as is well known, has chalked up 18 straight victories this season, winning its two qualifying tests in this title play as well as the crown of the Greater Boston League. And to run up a streak like that with one top-notch twirler, as Medford boasts, there have to be plenty of breaks handed to a baseball team. Granted! Medford has forced its way throughout but still the club has been blessed.

Morehouse, victor over Cambridge Latin on Thursday, was slated to go back to the mound Saturday with only two days rest. The clever right-hander, thanks to the break in the dry spell, will have no excuses now as he attempts to pitch his outfit into the Saturday state championship at Fenway Park.

Newton High, making its first bid for the title, has been, by far, the outstanding entry in this Schoolboy Writers' Ass'n tournament. In its two games against Braintree and Somerville, the Garden City aggregation of Coach Jeff Jones has tallied a grand total of 18 runs against one for the opposition. Both victories have been clean-cut affairs which showed definitely just why Newton captured the Suburban League pennant.

Joe "Moose" McManus, a kid southpaw with surprising control will be the holdover choice on the hill for Coach Jones. McManus has shown that he's at his best when the chips are down. He was Coach Jones' choice in the Arlington play-off that decided the circuit title and again in the opening game of this championship.

His one-hitter against Braintree has been the top pitching feat of the series and you just couldn't ask for an improvement on that performance in this tilt.

Newton will have a slight edge in the pitching and possibly in the batting with slugger Johnnie Racco proving the class of the infielders at first base, but you just can't overlook the scrappiness of Medford. Whatever Medford lacks in finesse, it makes up in fight.

You can flip a coin for the winner and be assured that you'll have as solid a choice as the keenest baseball follower. That's how evenly matched the two crews will be in this first all-Greater Boston final in the 10-year history of the Writers' well established play-off.

Wounded Vets Are Guests at Welch Bout

WEST SPRINGFIELD, June 12—Among those present at tonight's outdoor middleweight boxing bout between Coley Welch, N. E. champion, and Bobby Wade of Newark, N. J., will be 150 wounded war veterans and WACs. The bouts will be staged at the Crescent Kennel Club.

Jackie Hayes Goes Blind

Jackie Hayes, former White Sox infielder, is the victim of blindness. He is now in Morristown, N. J., to train for the use of a seeing-eye dog. His sight failed several months ago, after what was presumed to be a cinder in his eye developed seriously.

Casey Club Sitting Pretty at Park Peak

For the first time since the season's beginning the Park League opens up a week with a new band leader. And that new front-runner is none other than the six-time champion and present title defender, the Dick Casey Club of Dorchester.

The Caseys took over the lead from the Navy Yard early last week by taking both ends of a home-and-home series from the ship-builders, but held it only one day when the Navy took back the coveted spot. Then the Navy ran into an unexpected defeat at the hands of the tail end Hicks Engineering team while Caseys were winning again and the Dorchester club annexed first place for the second time in three days.

Both teams see action tonight and another shift may be in the making. The schedule favors the Navy Yard which meets the in and out West Roxbury at Billings Field while the Caseys face Lawley's, a vastly improved outfit, at Dorchester Town Field.

The only remaining game on for tonight is the Linehan-Trailway battle at Cleveland Circle.

The Linehans are currently in fourth place, only four games off the pace and a victory tonight would lift it to one-half game behind the Arsenal.

Bob Seeds Plants Himself Everywhere

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 12—It's seldom that a manager is able to play six or seven positions on the diamond. But Bob Seeds, pilot of the Travelers, can—and has been doing it.

In a game at Atlanta the other night "Suitcase" as he is called, managed the team, opened at short, was the winning pitcher in relief and wound up in right field.

Seeds opened the season at third base, playing there for two days. Then he did a stretch of 11 games in his regular position in center field. There followed 10 days at first base. When Bill McGee returned, Bob benched himself and then went to shortstop. He sandwiched a few appearances in right field in between.

Pesky Hits Three Bagger

Johnny Pesky, former Boston Red Sox shortstop, is the new manager of the Naval Air Station team at Atlanta, Ga., and he made a triple and single in helping his team defeat the Bell Bombers, 7 to 1, May 31. Larry Miller, formerly of the Atlanta Southern Ass'n club, gave up only two hits.

Such Is Fame!

Father Joseph J. Hushing of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, St. Louis, Mo., conducting a quiz on current affairs among the students of his school, asked:

"Can anyone tell me who Babe Ruth is?"

After some hesitation, a little girl finally raised her hand and replied:

"I know, he's a candy bar."

BALDNESS PREVENTED

Science has never discovered a way to re-grow hair on a bald head—and baldness remains a permanent condition. But rapid strides have been made by John E. Warner and his Associates in the prevention of baldness.

Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

Hours: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

OFFICES ARE AIR-CONDITIONED

Fore River at Full Strength

Fore River will be at full strength for the first time in a month when they lineup against the New York Black Yankees at 6 p. m. Friday at Fenway Park with invalids, Irving "Jack" Burns, former Tiger and Brownie, back on first base and Johnny Fuilon, former Yankee farmhand, back in uniform.

The game will provide the shipbuilders with their stiffest test of the season. The New York colored team's roster contains the names of six of the hardest hitters in the Negro professional league in addition the names of two of that loop's best pitchers.
